Clergymen Ask Nationwide Hearings On TV Sex, Crime

By JERRY T. BAULCH

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rabbi, a priest and a minister joined today in calling on the Federal Communications Commission to hold nationwide hearings on "gratuitous sex and violence" on television.

"The American public has been bypassed and ignored in the matter of sex-violence exploitation TV programming coming into their homes," said their statement for Morality in Media Inc., a national organization. "The public has been shunned by both the networks and the FCC in attempts to solve a problem that is a matter of national concern."

The statement was issued by Rabbi Julius G. Neumann, the Rev. Morton A. Hill and the Rev. Dr. Winfrey C. Link, all of New York, as they arranged to meet with FCC Chairman Richard E. Wiley.

The three said they agree "wholeheartedly" with a statement issued earlier this week by the U.S. Catholic Conference, spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church in this country, criticizing the new family viewing period.

The three major TV networks agreed starting this month to show only programs fit for family viewing during the first hour of prime nighttime TV, as well as the hour before, and to provide advisories when there are exceptions.

Wiley prodded the networks into this form of self-regulation and rejected any idea of FCC interference with program content, contending this is beyond the commission's authority.

The three clergymen agreed with the Catholic bishops that "the family viewing plan is one conceived by a few powerful men, behind closed doors, without public dialogue or consultation."

They said public hearings should be held in all areas of the country, not just Washington, as "a necessary first step to an open process."

"Such hearings would provide a definition of public attitudes," they said. "This should then be presented to the networks with a firm request that they comply ...

"The thought of government intervention in program content is odious to everyone. But there must be public consultation in this area, for the public owns the airwaves," they said. "This has not been forthcoming."

Morality in Media describes itself as a multi-denominational organization "working for media based on love, truth and taste." It is headed by Rabbi Neumann.

Father Hill and Dr. Link, former members of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, held hearings earlier this year on the family viewing period. They brought transcripts of those hearings for their meeting with Wiley.

Texans Waste Little Time Capturing Robbery Suspects

CADDO MILLS, Tex. (AP) — Citizens of this small Northeast Texas town don't take kindly to people robbing their only bank, especially when they kidnap the banker's daughter.

A posse of about 25 townspeople — the mayor, barber, farmers, storeowners — gave chase in cars Wednesday and nabbed two men about eight miles from town after the Caddo Mills State National Bank was robbed and Sherri Johnson, 19, was taken hostage.

To top it off, the two charged with aggravated robbery and kidnaping were identified as former Texas state troopers: George P. Marshall, 30, of Garland and Tommy Lee Deal, 28, of Houston, were held on $100,000 bond each in the Hunt County Jail at Greenville.

Deal identified himself as a former police chief of Webster, near Houston. The Department of Public Safety confirmed Deal resigned in 1972 and Marshall in 1969. Marshall identified himself as a Dallas County deputy marshal and former policeman at Webster.

Mayor Bobby Chapman, 34, was in City Hall when someone came in and reported that two men with hoods had entered the bank.

Chapman ran immediately to the barber shop.

Barber shop?

"Well, barber Larry Bost normally keeps a gun down there," Chapman said. "Luckily he had a high-powered rifle, a 30.06. We fired one shot in town, got the right front tire. We saw them coming out with the girl."

The bandits spotted Chapman and Bost as they started to flee the bank.

"They started to leave but then one of them said, 'Oh, my God, we got trouble out here. Hostage ... we want a hostage ... you, girl, we want you,'" referring to Miss Johnson, bank vice president Gordon Anderson said.

As the bandits' car, with one tire a little low, headed south on Texas 20, the townsfolk jumped in their cars and headed after them.

Chapman said there is a Citizens Band radio network of area residents "and once the word was out everyone was monitoring and closing in to assist."

"Their car slowed down after crossing some (railroad) tracks," Chapman said. "They pushed the girl out, then the car had to stop because the guy who pushed her out had dropped his gun."

"We stayed out of range until they abandoned their car."

"They ran to a pasture, then everybody was coming in from all sides," Chapman related.

"One boy fired a 30.30 (rifle) and when the bullet hit the ground, they hit the ground, too. They threw up their hands. They decided there were too many of us."

The posse held the men until Hunt County sheriff's deputies arrived about five minutes later.

The mayor said that Miss Johnson was skinned up, trembling and crying, but otherwise was all right.

While all of this was going on, Hunt County Sheriff Wayne Green's car was in the shop.

"All the time it was going on, I just sat at the radio and directed things," Green said. "I didn't get to get out there and get in on any of the fun."

Marshall and Deal were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Merrick Money.

"Well, I'll be dadgummed!" Money said upon learning of the pair's background.

The amount of money taken in

Berrien Narcotics Squad Seeking 24 On Warrants

Officers from 10 southwestern Michigan police agencies fanned out through Berrien county this morning, armed with warrants for the arrest of 24 persons charged with selling a variety of narcotic and hallucinogenic drugs by 10 a.m. today 11 of the 24 people named in the warrants had been arrested.

The combined drug raid was coordinated by the Berrien

County Metro Narcotics Squad and followed a 2½-month investigation centered on middle echelon drug dealers throughout the county.

Charges included the delivery of heroin, cocaine, marijuana and hallucinogenics PCP, MDA and LSD.

The warrants, authorized by the Berrien county prosecutor's office and Fifth District court Judge Ronald J. Taylor, sought the arrest of 23 adults and one juvenile.

Of the 23 adults, four are charged with second offenses violations of the Controlled Substance Act and are liable for a penalty twice the term or amount, upon conviction, under any section of the act.

Agencies participating in this morning's raid included city police departments from Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Waterville, Niles and Buchanan, the Berrien county sheriff's department, the Benton and St. Joseph township police departments and Michigan State Police posts in Benton Harbor and New Buffalo.

Under arrest this morning, with the drug they were alleged to have sold in parentheses, were:

At 71, New Pilot Makes First Solo Flight

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Robert Cook was born a year after the Wright brothers made their historical flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C., in 1903.

Cook, at 71 and nearly as old as the invention of the airplane itself, this week soloed as a pilot for the first time.

The flight took place Tuesday at Ross Field airport.

Cook, a member of the City of David colony, Benton township, said his desire to fly an airplane dates back to the 1920's when still in his teens he used to watch the ancestors of today's planes take off in Chicago.

According to Cook, he has been taking lessons off and on for a couple of years. July 3, 1973, his first instruction flight, is the first entry in his pilot flight log.

Besides being a bit older than most beginning pilots, Cook is also blind in one eye.

Nevertheless, at an age when many people find it difficult to crawl out of bed Cook planted himself in the cockpit and successfully handled the aircraft through three takeoffs and landings in his first solo flight.

The flight was taken in a Cessna 150 plane rented from Alpha Aviation, Inc. Instructor Roy Rach, 45, watched from the ground.

According to Rach, one of several flight instructors Cook had, he used a new approach in his teaching to help Cook overcome a difficulty Cook encountered with his landings.

Cook, who works as a maintenance man at the City of David of which he is a member, said he will continue to take instruction to get his private pilot's license. He said the successful solo flight this week allows him to now practice on his own without an instructor in the plane.

In the time-honored pilot's tradition Cook's shirttail was snipped off by Rach following the successful first solo flight.

Girl Is Killed In Collision With Front-End Loader

A 19-year-old Benton township woman was killed Wednesday night a short distance from her home when the car she was driving collided with a large front-end loader, Benton township police reported.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, was Kathleen Therese O'Brien, route 2, Britain avenue. A passenger, identified as the owner of the car, Dean Case, 30, of 4495 Oxbow road, Eau Claire, was listed in "serious" condition today at Mercy.

Miss O'Brien was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O'Brien. Her father, a Britain avenue fruit grower, is a former Berrien county commissioner and a former Benton township official.

Police identified the driver of the loader as Edward Earl Harden, 35, of 1721 St. Joseph road, Berrien Springs. He was treated for cuts on his head and released from Mercy. He is a co-owner of the loader, police said.

An uncle of the girl, Jack O'Brien, witnessed the crash, which occurred in front of his home.

The accident occurred on Britain avenue just west of Limerick drive and east of I-94 about 8 p.m. Police said the westbound loader and east-bound auto, a 1972 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, hit head on. The entire top of the car was ripped off, police reported, and the loader then tipped over, a portion of it falling on the trunk of the car.

Police have issued no citations or filed any charges in connection with the accident, pending further investigation.

The accident occurred just a quarter mile east of Miss O'Brien's home and in front of the home of her uncle Jack O'Brien, who witnessed the collision, police said.

Miss O'Brien's death brought the Berrien county traffic toll to 37 this year compared to 20 fatalities at this time a year ago. The 37 deaths are three more

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

'Anti-Redlining' Bill Could Prove Expensive

Moving through Congress is a measure which, in the guise of helping inner city dwellers, actually could make getting a mortgage more difficult and more expensive for all. Referred to as an "anti-redlining" bill, the legislative proposal would require federally chartered savings institutions to reveal the general neighborhoods where they make mortgage loans.

The idea is to bring pressure on the institutions from people living in older sections of cities where mortgage risks generally are higher than in the suburbs. In short, the proposed legislation — which has passed the Senate — would pressure savings institutions into moving some of their mortgage funds from safer investments into ones carrying greater risk.

That could result in higher mortgage costs for all. The measure also of course would transfer one more piece of the business community's decision-making process from private hands to the whims of federal planners, one of the specialties of the 94th Congress.

Taxpayer 'Bill Of Rights' Is Good--But No Cure-All

A "taxpayer bill of rights" has been introduced in Congress which would safeguard the individual taxpayer from some of the abuses by the Internal Revenue Service uncovered in recent years. The proposed legislation is far-reaching, including provisions for permitting a taxpayer to sue for damages for improper disclosure of income tax data.

Several safeguards are included to make political use of the IRS more difficult, penalties for misuse more severe and to provide taxpayers with a complaint assistance office. Another major change would give the General Accounting Office, the congressional watchdog agency, authority to oversee IRS activities.

Few activities of government can be as dangerous or chilling to the fabric of a free society as a politicized Internal Revenue Service. Glimpses of irregular IRS activities in recent years should serve as a warning that whatever degree of professionalism and self-discipline exists in the agency is insufficient to prevent tampering for partisan political causes.

Although it is important to keep the IRS honest, establishing watchdog agencies to oversee all the federal agencies which might be tempted into political mischief could be self-defeating. Retrenching the size and scope of government back to more manageable size would be better insurance against abuse.

Power To Regulate Is Awesome, Indeed

The power to tax may also be the power to destroy, as Chief Justice John Marshall observed long ago, but it is the government's power to regulate their every activity and to inquire into the minutest aspects of their lives that can drive Americans to distraction.

In a recent statement to the Senate Public Works Committee, for example, one major automaker complained that testing requirements for complying with federal auto pollution standards are becoming a "bureaucratic nightmare."

If all the paperwork generated for emissions certification of its 1975 models were placed in a single pile, it would reach about 200 feet high, the company said. It also cost $24 million, required 284 test cars, nearly a million and a quarter man-hours and 5.2 million miles of test driving. Cer-tification requirements for 1976 are even more complex and costly.

In a totally unrelated field, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is erecting another mountain of paperwork.

A new directive from HEW to the chief school administrators of the 50 states requires that school districts containing children who speak little or no English "must, at a minimum, determine the language spoken in the student's home, regardless of the language spoken by the student, the language most often spoken by the student in the home and the language spoken by the student in the social setting (by observation)."

Just in case they have any time left over after all that, HEW has also told the nation's 16,000 public school systems that they must begin keeping detailed discipline records to help the government determine if minority students are being punished more often than white students.

Like the fight against automobile pollution, it's all in a good cause, of course, as part of a study being conducted by HEW to determine if school districts with national minority children are violating the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits federal funds for discriminatory programs or activities.

But it would seem that if non-English-speaking children are having problems in school — and undoubtedly many of them are — it would make more sense to encourage special English language courses for them than to require harassed administrators to observe the language spoken by a student in the "social setting" and to investigate and report on the language spoken in a student's home — "regardless of the language spoken by the student."

Fortunately, the order does not apply, at least for this school year, to schools faced with an influx of refugee Vietnamese children, nor is it retroactive to those millions of people who came off the boats in the 19th century and early decades of the 20th century speaking no English. Left to sink or swim linguistically, these new Americans did quite well — so well, indeed, that many of their descendants now occupy important offices in Washington, from which they issue important directives.

Work on Benton Harbor's juvenile library, to be located in Library hall, will be started within a week, according to the contractors, Max W. Stock & Sons. The children's library is to have an outside entrance on Sixth street where the series of three basement windows are now located. Part of the present bank will be cut away to make the entrance level with the street. An inside vestibule will open into the library proper. Funds for the juvenile library were obtained from entertainments given during the past few winters by the three men's luncheon clubs, the Exchange, Rotary and Kiwanis. City Librarian Miss Theodosia Falkingham is preparing a list of 125 desirable children's books to be purchased for the boys' and girls' library.

another agency to investigate both the "accidents" that writer refers to. In both instances that police investigative agency cleared the particular officers of any intent. All the facts were obtained without the "assistance" of any member of our police department. In both instances professional ethics caused me to take these precautions, being fully aware of community concern and the possible conclusions of that agency. To suggest that either incident was by design is to also suggest to the readers of that letter they are of less than minimal intelligence. I do feel a community need to have the statements answered. I welcome constructive criticism from members of the community as well as other input as to the timeliness and correctness of my policies and practices of the public service I was appointed to administer.

I willingly accepted reasonable responsibility to provide the community with the highest quality and the greatest quantity of police service the City of Hartford can afford. I feel I have amply demonstrated, in the short two months of my appointment, there has been improvements within the department and very sufficient improvements are in the development. Some of those improvements are of the variety not often recognized by the public (through no fault of their own), some improvements have been obvious. Without going into detail here, I only want to say the city is purchasing a police service (a direct obligation of government) to the maximum allowable within the cities budget. That service to operate, not by machines or classical baboons, but by human beings. Humans paid and trained to efficiently and effectively maintain law within reason. But alas!!! those persons (officers) are at times as vulnerable as those persons they are protecting, helping, arresting, etc., is there a reader that can present a solution to this problem in the make-up of every human being?

We, as your local police officers, are trying desperately, individually, and as a group, to overcome human shortcomings. We are changing the odds in your favor — and that's all anybody can or ever will be able to do.

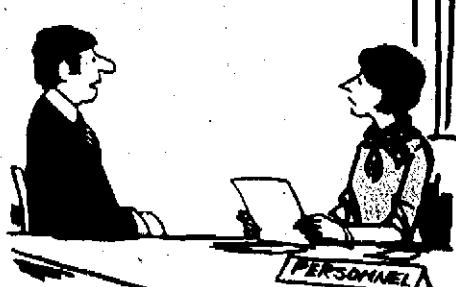

As for being, "protected from the police," any person that knows me personally should also know I am continuously on guard for any circumstances developing in our community that have overtones of a police state or a need of "being protected from the police."

I do not, personally, feel it is fair that we be referred to as "Hot Rod." This type of stereotyping has the same psychological effect on us as any other person mislabeled, not to mention the effect this labeling has on the impressionable young members of our community. When we are "Hot Rodding" or in pursuit (if I may) or responding to an emergency situation, we are acting in what we believe to be

Time, Luck Only Inflation Cure

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz are not being completely frank in assessing the effects of major Russian grain purchases on the price we pay for food.

Technically, they're correct. On paper, the Russian purchases, as seen here, would add around 2.5 per cent to the grain price.

But that's only the beginning. For one, that 2.5 per cent is on top of a probable 5.5 to 6 per cent rise which seems to be in the works — making a total gain we can expect of 8 to 8.5 per cent.

Then there's the ripple effect of price rises. So count on sizable increases in what you pay at the grocery store.

The economists I talk to have other bad news in store. They see an inflation rate of 8.5 per cent for the rest of this year. In 1976, at best, they predict 7 per cent to 7.5 per cent — assuming the best of conditions.

If all goes well, by 1977 or 1978 inflation could be cut to 5 per cent. That is, if everyone does the right thing. But it is unlikely that we'll get below that 5 per cent figure, at least in the foreseeable future. And even 5 per cent may not be realized in practice.

One source, whose economic forecasts have been far more accurate than those of his fellows over the past 20 years, is now convinced, in fact, that no one knows how to prevent inflation. "Once you're caught in this cycle," he says, "I don't know anything that can break it." Except time, if we're lucky.

The primary pressure in 1976 on prices is expected to come from industry — from the producers of steel, non-ferrous metals, machinery and other basic products, as demand begins to grow, forcing production rates up from today's dreary 85 per cent to 70 per cent of capacity.

Secondly, wage earners, whose incomes have not kept pace with the cost of living, will demand their share. When and if unemployment goes down to somewhere around 5 per cent, my economist friends believe that working men will, of necessity, press hard for more money.

A hefty rebuilding of inventories, after the drastic cutback they've gone through, will stimulate demand in 1976.

At the same time, expect too, a substantial increase in requests for bank loans and an expansion of commercial paper. The U.S. Treasury will be in the market practically every month for money. The combination will most assuredly drive interest rates up, with the prime rate most probably hitting 9 per cent.

This high cost money will make industrial expansion dreadfully expensive. The costs, of course, will inevitably be passed on to the consumer.

In 1977 we will begin to get intensified demand-supply tightness, since industry has not of late been putting much new capacity in place. New figures indicate that the 1975 expansion plans of U.S. industry are 11 to 12 per cent less than in 1974 in real terms, after discounting inflation. Though, as of now, it appears that 1976 will be somewhat better, the outlook is not good.

In summary, count on continued inflation. Don't expect anyone to do anything about it — successfully.

Jeffrey Hart

There's Tyranny In Theory

In his brilliant new book, "Pyramids of Sacrifice," sociologist Peter Berger begins with an illustration drawn from ancient Aztecs, he points out, had a large pyramid at Cholula on which they sacrificed tens of thousands of human beings to the god Quetzalcoatl. This was done because of their theory that the universe would fall to pieces if the gods were not regularly served meals of human blood. This notion was the product of an Aztec intellectual.

Peter Berger uses the Cholula pyramid as one vivid example of something distastefully frequent in modern politics. All too often theories of what people ought to want are imposed upon them in contrast to what they actually do want.

In Marx, for example, what people say they want is called "false consciousness." The people are confused. They are the victims of bourgeois values. In fact, they do not know what they ought to want. But this, fortunately, is known to the tiny advanced guard of Marxist intellectuals who will design the new state. What the people ought to want but for the time being do not is called "true consciousness."

The present Marxist government of Portugal is operating on just such a theory of false consciousness. If the vast majority has rejected the Communist Party, that is because they are ignorant. Prior to the elections last spring, contingents of Communist officers toured the countryside attempting to "raise the consciousness" of the people. They evidently failed.

The assumption of false consciousness is scarcely limited to Marxists. Many Women's Liberationists consider that if a woman wants to marry and raise a family then the necessary task is to raise her consciousness, show her the fallacy of her desires. If a parent does not want his child based somewhere in order to achieve "racial balance," then the liberal bureaucrat or judge will be the child anyway.

It sometimes happens, ludicrously enough, that a black student shows up on the college campus wearing a jacket and a tie and indicating that he wants to go to business school. Not a few faculty are outraged over this. The fellow is insufficiently "black." He is a victim of "false consciousness," an "oreo" as they say — black on the outside, white on the inside. Many liberal faculty members are much happier with "black" blacks, "authentic" ghetto types who talk about The Man and spout insults to suit every taste.

In "Pyramids of Sacrifice," Peter Berger argues convincingly that the first requirement of any policy that pretends to be decent and humane is that it allow people to define their own situation. Actually listen to them. Take them seriously.

More often than not the theorist is motivated by a snobbery so profound that he himself is unaware of it. He simply assumes, as Berger argues, "that lower class people do not understand their own situation, that they are in need of enlightenment on the matter, and that this service can be provided by selected higher-class individuals." The modern descendants, that is, of the priests of Cholula.

Robert Coles, the Harvard sociologist, as one of his principal intellectual strengths, has the capacity of actually listening to people without the intrusion of theory.

I treasure the following passage from his new book, "The Mind's Fate," in which a young black tells us what he thinks his people want, and it is not what the academic theorists think they ought to want: "We want in, we want to live like other Americans, we want the good things of life for our children. Let the hippies laugh at money and good clothes. Let college students say America is no good, and our schools are no good, and we should go live in communes. I want to finish high school and be an electrician, and I'd like to live in my own house and have good furniture in it and a new car and all the rest."

That fellow is obviously a victim of false consciousness.

Dual Role Questioned By Pennsylvania Paper

News stories in The Herald-Palladium and a Pennsylvania newspaper have sparked an editorial by the Pennsylvania paper criticizing Berrien county's director of environmental health for holding positions here and in Chester county, Pa.

The editorial in the West Chester Daily Local News chastised V. Harry Adronie, Berrien's new environmental health director, for holding a $20,000 per year job in Berrien county and demanding positions on two county boards in Chester county.

This newspaper last week quoted the News in a story detailing Adronie's appointment to the Chester county board of health while also serving on the Water Resources Authority in Chester county and with the health department in Berrien county.

The News quoted Adronie as telling the Chester county board of commissioners: "Don't pay any attention to the title of my Michigan job. Think of it as just a form of consulting work. And it's really not full-time."

"Well, it's sort of full-time . . . but I don't think I'll have any trouble handling the jobs," the News quoted Adronie.

The News' editorial also questioned the practicality of Chester's board of commissioners' appointment of Adronie to the Chester health board. Following is the text of the News' editorial:

It's hard to believe that the Chester county board of commissioners, by a 2-1 vote, has elected V. Harry Adronie to the county's board of health.

It's not that we doubt Adronie's expertise in the health field; for he worked as a paid employee for that county department from 1970 until last year, first as director of environmental protection, and for a shorter time as county solid waste coordinator.

We question the wisdom of the commissioners' action because Adronie recently accepted a $20,000-a-year job as director of (environmental) health for Berrien county, Mich.

When questioned about his new position, some 700 miles from Chester county, Adronie told a Local News reporter not to "pay any attention to the title of my Michigan job." However, when pressed, he admitted that although it is consulting work, "it's sort of fulltime."

Along with his new position on the county's board of health, he also serves as chairman of the Chester County Water Resources Authority. Both of these positions are non-paying jobs.

In nominating Adronie for the health post, Commissioner Chairman Theodore S.A. Rubino pointed to his background in health as making him qualified to serve on the board. While this is undoubtedly true, we do have some reservations about a former employee of the department being put on the board which makes policy for the department, no matter what ground rules are put down.

However, our overriding objection to the appointment is Adronie's job in Michigan. Berrien county is paying him $20,000 a year as department director. If he were getting that salary in Chester county, we would certainly expect him to be available immediately when needed.

Yet, as chairman of the important Water Resources Authority in this county, plus his new post on the health board here, he should be on call for any policy decisions which come up from time to time in both departments. That's rather difficult if you happen to be in Michigan at the time.

In explaining his recent health board appointment, Adronie told the Local News that he wasn't "a political machine," and that he has these positions because, "it's people coming to me."

If this is true, then perhaps he is spreading himself just a little too thin. We must agree with Commissioner Leo McDermott, who cast the lone vote against the Adronie appointment on Tuesday. McDermott said, "I was objecting to him holding the post on the health board while heading the Water Resources Authority and doing consulting work. It seemed impractical. Now that I find out that he's holding this other job (in Michigan), it certainly confirms my position."

Impractical, it is. And despite Adronie's acknowledged expertise in the health field, there are surely other Chester county residents well qualified to sit on this board, who will always be available.

V-M Jobless Rate Special Assistance

Approximately 200 employees of V-M Corp., Benton Harbor, have been certified by the U.S. Labor department as eligible to apply for trade adjustment assistance, amounting to payments of up to 70 per cent of their average weekly wages.

The labor department said it found that the workers are unemployed or employed less than full-time as result of competition from imported electronic products. Cash trade adjustment allowances and other forms of assistance are made available to workers adversely affected by foreign import competition under the Federal Trade Act of 1974.

The certification provides that all hourly and salaried employees of V-M who became totally or partially separated from employment since last Oct. 3 are eligible to apply for the special assistance. Applications can be submitted through the Michigan Employment Security commission office.

Victor Miller, president of the firm, said employees on layoff made application for the assistance and that the company cooperated with two labor department investigators who made the determination of the adverse effects of foreign imports on employment at V-M.

V-M, which produces record changers, tape records and related electronic products, at one time employed approximately 1,000 persons. Employment has declined in the past decade, and Miller said the firm now has about 200 employees, and another 75 to 80 on layoff status at this time.

"We continue to focus our efforts on rebuilding to more normal levels of activity and employment," Miller said this Wednesday. "Financial limitation rather than foreign competition is now the key to that. It has been for several years, though foreign competition was instrumental in creating the problem initially."

Mrs. Isabel Nutt, manager of the MESCC office in St. Joseph, said this is the first time workers in this immediate area have become eligible for this new type of assistance. A supervisor from the St. Joseph office is taking special training in handling applications, she added.

Mrs. Nutt said it is possible for these workers to be eligible for both unemployment compensation and for the trade adjustment assistance at the same time, up to a maximum of $178 a week. The workers are eligible to receive the special assistance for up to 52 weeks. Those who are 60 years or older may receive another 26 weeks of assistance.

Economic Club Will Open 33rd Season Oct. 9

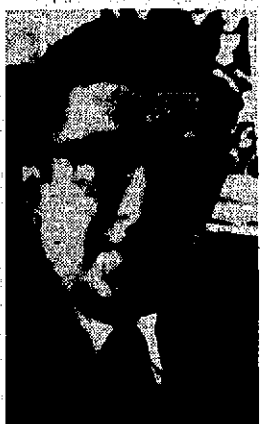

Dr. Herbert Stein, a nationally known economist who until a year ago was chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, will open the 33rd season of the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan on Thursday, Oct. 9, according to John Paul Taylor, club president.

Dr. Stein will review problems of the nation's urban areas in a talk, titled, "What Hope for the Cities?" He will be introduced by Atty. Joseph D. Hartwig, chairman of the club's speakers' committee.

Dr. Stein will be the club's 1980 guest speaker at the dinner meeting, which will begin at 6:45 p.m. at Barnada Inn, off M-139 in Benton township.

Born in Detroit, Dr. Stein received a bachelor's degree from Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., and doctorate from the University of Chicago. He has worked on the staff of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and on various federal war agencies from 1940-45. He served as an Ensign in the U.S. Navy from 1944-45.

For nearly 25 years, Dr. Stein was associated with the Committee for Economic Development, and he also has served as a Senior Fellow of the Brookings Institute. He was appointed to the President's Council of Economic Advisors in 1969 and became its chairman in 1972. He left the Council in September,

Shoots Self In Foot

A Benton Harbor woman was treated and released from Mercy hospital Wednesday after accidentally shooting herself in the foot, city police reported.

Viola Mills, 28, of 547 Edwards avenue, told police she was alone in her house when a .22 caliber rifle she was holding discharged, the bullet hitting the top of her foot, shortly after 1 p.m.

Motorecyclist Hospitalized By Crash

A Benton Harbor motorecyclist was hospitalized after his cycle and a car collided Wednesday at the intersection of East Main and North McCord streets, Benton Harbor police said.

Listed in "serious" condition with a broken pelvis, foot and wrist at Mercy hospital was Fred Allen Haskins, 29, of 603 Broadway street. Police said the driver of the car, O.B. Jenkins, 59, of 194 North McCord, was cited for failure to yield the right of way in the 6:15 p.m. accident.

NEW PRESS-SPOTTER BOX: Recently completed 12 by 40 foot, three-story press box at Coloma's McDaniels field was used first time last Friday during Coloma-Lake Michigan Catholic football game. It was voluntarily erected by Coloma Athletic Boosters Club and contains two floors for equipment storage with a top floor for press and spotters. Coloma school board approved $7,000 for purchase of material used in construction. Looking over new facilities are athletic director Ted Blahnik, in bleachers, and middle school custodian Lewis Rogers. Box replaces old structure in use since early 1950's and demolished last June. (Cliff Stevens photo)

BH DEPARTMENT LISTS SCHEDULE

Recreation Program Opens Sept. 22

The Benton Harbor area recreation department, will begin its fall and winter program Sept. 22 under the direction of the newly-formed recreation board, according to James Dudley, Sr., board chairman.

Programs to be conducted this year include recreation for youths, neighborhoods, boys, men and pre-school children.

The recreation board, which has been operating since June, consists of five members with two representatives appointed by the city, two appointed by the board of education and one appointed by the Berrien county parks and recreation department.

The recreation department is offering roller skating at G & W skating rink, 453 Highland avenue, 3:15 to 5:15 p.m., Tuesdays for 4th, 5th and 6th graders and Wednesdays for 7th and 8th graders. Cost per child is 35 cents.

Open basketball, basketball leagues and volleyball will be offered for neighborhood recreation at schools throughout the city. The location and time that gyms will be offered for recreation are: Bard, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Benton Harbor junior high,

Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Calvin Britain, Mondays and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Hull, Monday and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Morton Hill, Mondays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Seeley McCord, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Fairplain East, Mondays and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m.; Fairplain Northeast, Mondays and Wednesdays, 6 to 9 p.m., and Lafayette, senior high students, Wednesdays, 6 to 8 p.m.

A pre-school recreation program will be offered for children 3 and 4 years of age at the Neighborhood center, 809 Territorial road. The program, which will consist of field trips, games and arts and crafts, will be offered Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a.m. and from noon to 2 p.m.

The recreation department will also be sponsoring a men's basketball league and a 5th and 6th grade boys' basketball program, both of which are scheduled to begin Dec. 6.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

BROWN CITY, Mich. (AP) — A New Jersey woman was seriously burned Wednesday in a trailer explosion, according to Sanilac County sheriff's deputies.

Officials said Charles Casper Jr., 60, of Cardiff, N.J., and his wife, Marie, were in their trailer at the Traveco Service Center on Main Street in this rural Thumb community when an explosion ripped through the vehicle.

Clark Official To MC 'Kickoff'

Edward T. Donahue, vice-president and general manager of the Construction Machinery division, Clark Equipment Company, will be master of ceremonies for the Blossomland United Way kickoff banquet Tuesday, Sept. 23, according to Robert Molhoek, general campaign chairman.

Donahue will preside over the annual BUW ceremonies at which famed track star Jesse Owens will address over 500 United Way area fund-raising volunteers in the Lake Michigan College student union. The public is invited and reservations for the dinner can be made at the United Way office, 883-6515.

Due to limited time availability in the Twin Cities, Owens is scheduled for only five personal appearances in area industries.

Donahue joined Clark Equipment Company in 1970 and assumed his present post in July, 1971. Before joining Clark, Donahue was president of Power Motive Corporation, a Denver based Clark distributor which Donahue organized in 1960.

An industrial engineering graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Donahue holds a master's degree in business administration from Harvard University. He holds directorships in Inter City Bank, Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, Area Resources Improvement Council, and the Twin Cities Area Development Corporation.

Many United Way employee campaigns have already commenced in the United Way area, Molhoek reported. Some schools have completed solicitations with big increases being posted at Berrien Springs Public Schools, 54.88 per cent; Lakeshore Public Schools, 148.5 per cent, and Lake Michigan Catholic Schools, 533.9 per cent. Lakeshore Superintendent of Schools Frederick Schmidt is chairman of the education section of the 1975 campaign public division.

Molhoek reported hundreds of United Way area residents have seen the 1975 campaign film, "You've Got A Friend", produced locally by Harold Andrus, president of the Twin Cities Camera Club. The fast paced 10 minute depiction of United Way dollars at work in service programs is available from the United Way office.

EDWARD T. DONAHUE
United Way Emcee

Fund raisers will be recognized at the kick-off celebration in a special segment of the evening's program with the presentation of a "Salute To Volunteers", a United Way of America produced multi-media sound-screen program flown in from Washington especially for the banquet. The computerized presentation will be flashed on three 9 foot by 12 foot screens from hidden slide and movie projectors.

CLAIM FOOD STAMPS TOO COSTLY

Migrants Appeal To Berrien Court

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Fifty-two migrant farm workers from Berrien county have filed an appeal in Berrien Circuit court claiming they are charged too much for food stamps.

The plaintiffs charge that although a hearing on their complaint was held by the State Department of Social Services, no action was taken by the department — in effect denying their request for lower food stamp prices.

The appeal on behalf of the migrants was filed by Atty. Paul A. Lechowick, staff attorney for the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project, which has an office in Berrien Springs. Named respondent in the appeal was John Dempsey, director of the social services department for Michigan.

The appeal asks that the circuit court reverse the social services department's decision not to give the plaintiffs food stamps at a lower cost; to order a cash refund to those plaintiffs who were overcharged for food stamps; to order that credit be given to those plaintiffs improperly denied program benefits in the amount of the bonus to which the plaintiffs claim they were entitled; and to have the social services department reimburse lost benefits for households improperly denied benefits.

Lechowick said he was unable to give a dollar estimate on how much it would cost if what the migrants seek is granted, but predicted that $100 per individual would be near the top.

The appeal charges the decision by the social services department not to grant the plaintiffs request is contrary to the preponderance of evidence presented at a hearing held July 30 in Benton Harbor, and that the decision is contrary to federal and state regulations and guidelines for issuance of food stamp coupons.

Lechowick said some of the migrants paid too much for the food stamps they received, while others were denied food stamp benefits. No date has yet been set for a circuit court hearing on the appeal.

Junior Miss Selection Oct. 25

LAKESHORE PROGRAM: Lakeshore Junior Miss for 1976 will be selected Oct. 25 in a program sponsored by the Lakeshore Junior Women's club. According to Mrs. Richard (Jane) Berry, co-chairman, and Mrs. Ronald (Lynn) Fites, general chairman, a get-acquainted party will be held Sunday, Sept. 21, at 3 p.m. at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville. (Staff photo)

Get-Acquainted Party For Senior Girls

Lakeshore Junior Women's club will sponsor for the second year the Lakeshore Junior Miss program scheduled for Oct. 25.

A get-acquainted party for interested Lakeshore area senior girls will be held Sunday, Sept. 21, at 3 p.m. at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville, according to Mrs. Ronald (Lynn) Fites, program general chairman.

Those attending are asked to bring a parent to learn the qualifications and benefits of the program.

Lakeshore area girls who are seniors in high school and who have never been married and will not graduate before May 1 of the present school year are eligible, according to Mrs. Fites.

Entry forms will be available at the get-acquainted party and may also be obtained at Lakeshore high school.

Participants in the program will be judged in five categories: poise and appearance; judges' conference; scholastic achievement; physical fitness; and creative and performing arts.

The Lakeshore Junior Miss program will be held in Lakeshore high school auditorium Saturday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door only.

Assisting Mrs. Fites will be Mrs. Richard (Jane) Berry, co-chairman; Mrs. Lynn (Ginger) Hess, production; Mrs. John C. (Vickie) Florin, publicity; Mrs. Robert (Sue) Vandermolen, judges; Mrs. Frank (Janet) Mabrey, tickets.

Also Mrs. Larry (Judy) Schultz, advertising; Mrs. Don (Jan) Anstey, awards; Mrs. Walter (Mary Jane) Waldenmaler, programs; Mrs. Kip (Connie) Shindeldecker, chaperones; Mrs. Jerry (Pam) Lacker, facilities; Mrs. Walter (Janet) Clements, stage; Mrs. Richard (Nancy) Alken, notebook, and Mrs. Sally Hyde, past winners.

Paw Paw Girl Given $600

She Attends Michigan State

PAW PAW — Durkee Food Service, Group/SCM Corp., Cleveland, Ohio, has awarded a $600 scholarship to Darlene M. Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland M. Chase of Paw Paw, according to an announcement by W.A. Hagen, Group vice president.

Miss Chase, 22, a graduate of Bloomingdale high school, will attend courses in the foodservice management program of Michigan State University where she is a senior majoring in hotel management.

The scholarship is awarded by Durkee in cooperation with the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association (IFMA), a Chicago-based trade association of which Durkee is a member. A total of 94 are being awarded for the academic year 1975-76 through combined efforts of the IFMA members.

DARLENE CHASE

The program is administered by the National Institute for the Foodservice Industry (NIFI), Chicago.

To be selected for a scholarship, a student must have a high academic standing and have taken courses in the foodservice curriculum.

Lakeshore Junior

Randi Wilhelmsen, a Lakeshore high school junior, had the opportunity to study at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, this summer through a program sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study.

The program included three weeks of university classes in modern Britain, zoology and ecology and a European tour following the studies.

Miss Wilhelmsen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd Wilhelmsen of Stevensville, received six hours of college credit for the classes, which she says were concise, and she learned very much from them. Fifty-seven students from throughout the United States participated.

Randi was accompanied on the trip by her aunt, Mrs. Kathleen Hess of Muncie, Ind., who is a regional chairman for the institute.

While at Aberdeen, local governmental agencies held several special programs for the students, including the presentation of certificates saying they had completed the three weeks' study at the university. Randi also spent an afternoon with a Scottish minister's family.

Following the classes at Aberdeen, Randi and her aunt, with a group of the 57 students, visited Ireland, England,

RANDI WILHELMSEN

France and Italy. They stayed on the campuses of University of Edinburgh, London, the Sorbonne and Loyola of Rome.

While visiting in Dublin, Ireland, Randi says a building was blown up by the Irish Republican Army, and confesses she was "pretty scared."

The entire trip lasted about six weeks. She and her aunt returned home Aug. 12.

Randi says the trip "helped me to learn to communicate with people better."

Randi is a member of the Lakeshore high school marching and concert bands, and student council. She has participated in one variety show and has helped on other plays. She plans to attend college and study social work or education.

Pair Wed 50 Years

DECATUR — Mr. and Mrs. John Tarnas of Decatur were honored at a family dinner party celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Sept. 14, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George (Rosemary) MacKenzie of Kalamazoo.

Also hosting the event was the couple's other daughter, Mrs. Stan (Dolores) Rajzer of Decatur.

The former Elizabeth Zablocki and Tarnas were married Sept. 22, 1925, in Chicago.

They have resided in Decatur for the past 22 years.

Prior to his retirement, Tarnas was a building contractor.

The couple has 12 grandchildren.

Gap Closing This Fall In Male Wearables

NEW YORK (NEA) — Notice how seldom these days we hear the Yippie-battle cry, "Don't trust anybody over 30!" Maybe it's because all the Yippies are now over 30 themselves and have become suitably silent.

The designers of boys' and men's clothing also are becoming less concerned about the supposed gap between the generations. For the first time in more than a decade, the truism "like father, like son" actually refers to male wearables. As Chip Tolbert, fashion director, Men's Fashion Association of America, puts it, there's a "definite overlap in the fall fashions for boys, teenagers and their fathers."

Suddenly, single-breasted, vested suits, dress-up leisure suits with details nearly identical to pop's, and even wrap coats have been introduced for fall by nearly all volume-oriented boys and teenmen's clothing manufacturers.

But if boys' wear is reflecting what's happening in men's styles, vice versa is also true. Witness the ongoing movement of mature men to grasp easy living in prescribed denim, western looks, untailored pants and jacket coordinates and casual sportswear. Even, in more traditional clothing, the inspiration for fall — updates of classics from the last few decades — are the same for dad and junior. Bogart trenchcoats, pinstripes, standby blazers and British tweeds span the generations.

The breakdown of the age barrier in what's available and acceptable in both men's and boys' clothing for fall could signal new patterns for where dad and junior buy as well as what they buy. Could either shop in stores and departments which customarily have assumed age or styling segregations? In a number of instances, the answer is yes. But the stores catering to adult men don't like the idea much.

"If a guy who wears a size 40 regular realized he could buy a similar blazer in the boys' department, size 24, for about $20 less, we'd lose money," notes a spokesman for a major chain. "Besides, it probably wouldn't fit him as well." Yet the same executive admits that he can try on three suits from three manufacturers in the men's department and that all three would fit — slightly differently.

Sid Mayer, the senior vice president of Saks Fifth Avenue, while cautioning he doesn't want to give the impression that "a person could go crazy shopping for a blazer in Saks," does allow that theoretically a man of average build could shop in five different areas. Unquestionably there is a price advantage for the man who can and will shop in the boys' department ranging from 8-20. A size 20 roughly equates to a size 36 in men's suits, the smallest size a number of men's departments carry. The number of men who can shop here is minimal. But, for the small adult male the average price of a vested suit for fall in the boys' department, boy's size 20, will be $85, considerably less than in the other areas.

Saks' Vantage Point for the Young Man is its teen shop, although the sizes overlap adult sizes. The average price for a full vested suit, notes Mayer, will be $140. The price jumps to $185 in the Traditional Shop, $195 in the Passport Collection area offering European-styled suits to $200 in the regular men's suit department.

Most stores are loath to contemplate the adult shopping in the young man's area but, in suitings, at least, they force the young man to think older. At the mass merchant level, neither Montgomery Ward's The Chain Shop for the young man (18-25) nor Sears' Put-On Shop for the "contemporary" customer, even carry conventional tailored suits. J.C. Penney once carried a student suit but discontinued it. So the young man of necessity must check out the men's departments, where sizing variations abound.

The main argument store personnel make against adults shopping in young men's departments — fit — is thus often ignored when the process is reversed. And fit is no longer nearly as simple as it was during the heyday of the Madison Avenue natural shoulder suit.

Although the National Bureau of Standards has offered guidelines for the "anthropometry"

(measurement of the human body) for women and children thus far the adult male has been ignored... but, then, so have the studies to help in establishing proper sizing. In the women's area, notes one source defending the men's industry, it is not uncommon for a dressmaker, knowing perfectly well that a garment is actually a size 12 to put size 9 on the label. Some unsuspecting shopper might be so pleased she can fit into the 9, she'll buy it for the size and not the style. This type of deception does not exist in the men's field, he claims.

In theory, the first consideration in determining a man's suit size is chest measurement. If it is 40 inches and he's of normal height, presumably he should wear a size 40 regular. If he's lanky, a 40 long; if diminutive, a 40 short. However, the relationship between jacket size and pant size must also be evaluated.

A spokesman for Hart Schaffner & Marx, the large menswear manufacturer which produces clothing under literally dozens of labels, points out that the style of a suit depends to a great extent on its cut and that models vary. A Hickey-Freeman suit, for example, which sells as high as $500 in limited edition, imported British fabrics, most commonly has a 5-inch differential between suit size (e.g., 42) and pant waist size (37 inches); while a European-styled Cerutti for M. Wile, priced from $125-$155, generally has a more suppressed jacket, higher armholes, and the drop is 7 inches from suit size (e.g., 42) to pant waist measurement (35 inches).

Reportedly suits styled for young men generally also have a greater drop (usually 7 inches) and shorter rises. On a mature male, then, if the jacket fits, the pants might not. However, actually young men's suits are dimensioned more closely to designer and European models for mature males than other traditional mature male models. And since a number of men's specialty stores and departments present merchandise only by size, the only way to know if a particular suit fits is to try it on.

Of course, there are a number of men — the paunchies — who can wear neither a European-styled nor a young man's suit. But perhaps surprisingly, considering all the talk about the overweight American, a decade ago at Hart Schaffner & Marx, the production of Executive sizes (a euphemism for portly) was 3-5 per cent, while it's currently 2-3 per cent. And whereas a generation ago, the average size was 40 regular, it is now 42 regular. So, while apparently Dads are getting in better shape, Juniors are getting bigger, bringing them closer together in size as well as taste in clothing.

Hayfever Suffers Like Cloudy Days

Weather forecasts get high ratings from television viewers who suffer from hay fever.

If the forecast is cloudy or rainy, unlike most people, hay fever victims are likely to be pleased.

Dry, hot and windy weather raises clouds of pollen or molds which can travel for miles, and the severity of hay fever depends on the amount of pollen in the air.

Fortunately, if there is nothing that can be done about the weather, there are ways to control the distressing symptoms of hay fever.

Antihistamines usually give temporary relief in mild cases for the sneezy and runny nose stages. A nasal spray seems to give relief more quickly when taken as directed than do pills or tablets for some individuals.

Hay fever should be taken seriously and a physician consulted, especially for severe cases. And, the indoor atmosphere can be regulated by keeping windows and doors closed as much as possible and staying in air conditioned or air-filtered areas.

Some Top Awards In Garden Council Flower Show

ARTISTIC DESIGN: Amy Bozoarth, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bozoarth, was presented the Junior Achievement Award for this entry in the artistic design division, "Little House on the Prairie," at Twin Cities Area Council of Garden clubs' bicentennial flower show, "200 Years: Heritage and Horizons." The event, which was held at Whitcomb Tower in St. Joseph Sept. 13, was the first for the council and was chaired by Mrs. Ralph Gordon and Mrs. William Kennedy, both members of the Watervliet Garden club. Fresh materials used by Amy in this arrangement included golden rod and Queen Anne's lace, with a monarch butterfly. The corn husk doll, broom in hand, was used to add to the pioneer spirit of the arrangement.

AWARD OF EXCELLENCE: Mrs. Robert Smith, of Four Seasons Garden club, St. Joseph, received the Horticultural Award of Excellence at Twin Cities Area Council of Garden clubs bicentennial flower show Sept. 13. This Nephralpis Exaltata fern, for which Mrs. Smith received the award, is a relative of the Boston fern. Mrs. Smith used an antique piano stool to display the plant.

TRICOLOR AWARD: Tricolor Award ribbon, given at Twin Cities Area Council of Garden clubs' bicentennial flower show Sept. 13, was presented to Mrs. Paul Taglia of Highcliffe Terrace Garden club, St. Joseph, for this artistic live arrangement of all fresh materials. Class, "The Fruited Plains," was for live arrangements incorporating fruit or a fruit branch. Mrs. Taglia used a pear branch, gold previl, clay twin Dogwood and sedum. (Staff photos)

List More YWCA Activities

Openings are still available in many classes being offered during the fall term at the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph YWCA, according to Maureen Pedersen, director. Dates for two of the seminars have also been changed.

Dr. Dean Ray will conduct a breast cancer seminar Oct. 23 instead of Jan. 23, and family involvement training will begin Sept. 24 instead of Sept. 17.

A class omitted from the YWCA's earlier advertisement is an eight-week course in cake decorating which will begin Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 12:45 p.m. Instructor will be Betty Kirsky.

Cost is $13.50 for members and $16.50 for non-members. The macrame class will meet Mondays from 9 to 11 a.m. for three weeks.

Openings are available in rug braiding, bridge, numerology, guitar and bread baking classes, cosmetics workshops and some swimming and physical fitness classes.

Interested persons may contact the YWCA, St. Joseph, a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Kerr-Morrissett Vows Spoken

Miss Mary Morrissett and Ralph Edward Kerr exchanged wedding vows Sept. 13 at the First United Presbyterian church, Westminster, Md. The Rev. Claude Hughes performed the ceremony.

The couple is making their home in Washington, D.C., where both are students at the American university.

ARTS CONNOISSEUR

Amateur comes from the Latin "amator" and originally meant "one who has a taste for anything." In 17th century France, the term distinguished the connoisseur of fine arts.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Morrissett, 1102 Flanders Place, St. Joseph. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Kerr, Havertown, Pa.

Car Pools: Know Responsibilities

A mother's favorite time of year is here — back to school!

Many enterprising mothers form car pools to save time and money. It really is more convenient to share the chore of driving the children to and from school, but car pools are a responsibility.

A maker of tested car seats for children, suggests all car poolers be aware of such matters as insurance, car maintenance, and most important, the safety of their small passengers. Their suggestions for a safe car pool for the school year:

Know all the drivers involved in the pool. If you have any questions or your child complains, an open dialogue should be maintained regarding the drivers' habits and individual responses to driving problems.

Discuss insurance. The best insurance for car poolers is $100,000 liability coverage per passenger. Medical coverage should be a minimum of $3,000 for each passenger. It is wise for parents to discuss car pool insurance with their individual insurance agents. Parents should be aware that the driver may be accountable for faulty equipment or driving errors which may have contributed to an accident.

Be sure each car in the pool has a maintenance inspection. All drivers in the pool should have their autos inspected at a competent garage. Trouble areas such as brakes, steering, lights, turn signals and other problem areas should be checked. Snow tires are a must in winter, and beware of bald tires, which are highly susceptible to blow outs.

Establish safety rules. While many safety rules for traveling with children seem obvious, it is best to spell out rules for the road. A list of important safety procedures you should discuss with the other car poolers:

1. Never overcrowd the car and never load children into the back of a station wagon, one of the most dangerous places in the car. Each child traveling in the pool should be properly restrained, in their own individual car seat, harness or seat belt.

If your car pool consists of preschoolers weighing under 40 pounds, or even if your little one accompanies you on your day to drive, keep in mind that children under 40 pounds should not wear adult seat belts, which can cause internal injuries to a small child in the event of a collision. Instead, choose a car seat which has been dynamically tested under simulated crash conditions.

Another alternative is one manufacturer's auto restraint harness, rated by the National Driving Center at Duke University as one of the best, for each child up to 50 pounds.

2. Be sure the back window ledge is free of objects. A sudden stop could send objects flying about the interior of the car, possibly striking and injuring the passengers.

3. Don't allow children to roll down the windows. On warm days the parent should open the window a little way and make it clear to the children that they are not allowed to roll them down further. All arms and legs should be inside the car.

4. Review the route, pick up, and delivery of passengers. One route, which all parents consider the safest and easiest, should be established. Pick up and discharge passengers on the curb side only and never at an intersection.

5. Take extra time when weather conditions are bad. In all cases, allow five minutes to pick up each passenger, plus the normal driving time.

6. Avoid backing up. Little tots can't be seen in the rear-view mirror, and it's especially wise to avoid backing near the school where children may be playing.

7. Never, under any circumstances, should children be left alone in the car, even for a short time.

8. While parents don't like to discipline someone else's child, it's absolutely necessary for safe car pooling.

9. Never discipline children while driving. If a problem does arise, signal, pull off the road, stop the car and then deal with the children.

10. Be sure when you drop each child off, he's met by an adult.

Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Youngster With Quick Mind

Dear Ann Landers: I identified strongly when I read that letter from the mother of the three-year-old child who had to wear a patch over one eye and strangers on the street kept coming over and asking, "What happened to the child?"

Our own youngster is now eight years of age. He had an eye problem last year and had to wear a patch for several weeks. One day when we were at the beach a nosy lady came over and looked at the boy with such pity it made me sick. Finally she asked the child, "What's the matter with your eye, dear?" Without a moment's hesitation he replied, "Nothing, lady. I'm a pirate."

Needless to say, the woman disappeared in no time flat. How's that for a snappy comeback? — From The Mouths Of Babes

Dear Babe: Beautiful. That son of yours sounds as if he's not going to have any trouble making his way in the world.

Dear S.D.: Here are your helpful hints for the public. I hope it makes your job easier.

Fernwood Schedule

Twenty-five different crafts will be demonstrated by members of Fernwood Nature Center's classes that have taken place over the past two years at an art fair, "Arts and Crafts in Action," to be held this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 20 and 21.

The event will be held at the nature center, located south of Berrien Springs on Range Line road, and hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. each day.

Techniques used in completing the art forms will be demonstrated at the fair. Exhibits will include pottery, raku firing, natural dyeing, sculpture, painting in several medias, design, loaded glass, basketry, cornhusk flowers, whittling, quilting, stitchery, rug hooking, sandcasting and stone polishing. Also included will be flower drying, bonsai and a photography show.

Sale areas will be sponsored by the Fernwood Photography club, the Fernwood Potters' Guild and the Fernwood Gift Shop.

A general admission will be charged for non-members, with members being admitted free.

Transportation between exhibit areas will be provided for those unable to walk.

Mrs. David Kallings of Niles is program chairman, and Mrs. James Fenner, also of Niles, is co-chairman.

A painting class, taught by Ed Herriman, began Sept. 17, and registration for the class may still be made on Wednesday, Sept. 24. Fees will be pro-rated for those students who begin at that time.

The class meets from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays.

Herriman has exhibited in national and regional shows, where he has won many awards and citations for his work.

Can the circumcision be done in a doctor's office? I hate hospitals. Is it worth the trouble? — Wish My Folks Had Given Me A Briss

Dear Wish: Circumcision is the cutting away of the male foreskin. It can be done in a doctor's office under anesthetic. Yes, it is somewhat painful but it's well worth the discomfort. In Biblical times it was done as a religious ritual — and like many religious rituals it had a solid basis in hygiene. I agree, it would have been a lot easier if your folks had given you a briss, but forgive them, and vow to do better by your sons.

Rebekah Visitation Friday

BUCHANAN — June Rebekah Lodge of Glendora will host the lodges of Rebekah District 27 at the visitation meeting at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 19, in Buchanan Odd Fellow hall, North Oak street.

Program, arranged by Mrs. George Duis and Mrs. Eric Weinauer, will be followed by a potluck supper.

Preceding the visitation meeting, Bayleaf, Rebekah Lodge 247 will hold its regular meeting in the hall at 7:30 p.m.

Good Breakfast Is Essential

To keep you active and alert all day, a nutritious breakfast is essential.

The inexpensive high-quality protein of eggs is a good way to break the fast between yesterday's dinner and today's lunch.

Annual Fall Festival Sept. 27

LAWRENCE — The fall festival, sponsored by the Van Buren County Youth Fair Association, will be held Saturday, Sept. 27, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Van Buren county fairgrounds, located on Red Arrow highway between Lawrence and Hartford.

The 4-H Square Dancers of Mattawan, and "The Two Bits" of Kalamazoo will be the entertaining groups who will perform at the festival, from 2 to 3 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. respectively.

Mrs. George Tinker, co-chairman for the festival, has announced.

Mrs. Harold Cafferata of Paw Paw will demonstrate the making of apple dolls, and will also sell them. The Lawrence Boy Scout Troop will make apple cider at the fair.

Other attractions will be rock grinding, spoon jewelry, wooden items, chair caning, weaving and demonstration of hand tools.

Proceeds will be used for equipment for the fairgrounds.

Sorghum Molasses Making Sunday

A demonstration of old-fashioned sorghum molasses-making will take place at the LaPorte County Historical Steam Society exposition grounds Sunday, Sept. 21.

The afternoon event will include a demonstration of ancient equipment squeezing the sorghum stalks and the juice being boiled into a molasses which was once a staple on American farm tables. Around the turn of the century, it was prized as a table syrup for pancakes and used as a confection in other ways because of its sweet flavor.

The sorghum is grown on the exposition grounds exclusively for the demonstration of the equipment in the fall.

Visitors will be able to taste the sorghum as well as ride the Flying Dutchman Railroad steam trains which will be frequently robbed on Sunday.

The exposition grounds are located on LaPorte County road 1000 off Indiana 39 east of I-94 at New Buffalo.

Pullman Events Listed

PULLMAN — The monthly Penny Supper sponsored by the Pullman Oddfellow Lodge will be held Saturday, Sept. 20.

The public is invited to the 6 p.m. event in the Oddfellow Temple, 109th avenue.

PULLMAN — Ladies Missionary Circle of Pullman Bible church will meet Tuesday, Sept. 23.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. General Burnett, 109th avenue, Pullman.

Common Cause Offers Reform Changes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Common Cause has proposed that contributors to political campaigns be permitted to give up to $50 or more without being reported by name.

The recommendation was included in a list of changes which the self-styled "citizens lobby" said it found acceptable in the recently-enacted political reform bill. It also proposed to drop some local officials from the law's requirement to reveal their financial interests.

The bill regulates political donations and spending; requires registration and disclosure by lobbyists; requires statements of financial interests by public officials; provides partial public funding of gubernatorial campaigns and sets up a political ethics commission to oversee the act.

"We believe the reform bill as enacted is an excellent one," said Terry Black, chairperson for the organization. "However, a number of suggested changes in the law have been offered by Gov. Milliken and others which we agree would be strengthening."

Common Cause Executive Director Doug Ross said he favored raising the contribution "floor" from $15 to $50 or more. Above that limit, candidates have to report contributions by name and address.

Common Cause recommended a $50 floor when it first drafted the bill, Ross said, but it was lowered to $15 by the Democratic-controlled legislature.

"Fifty dollars strikes me as in the right neighborhood, maybe a little higher," Ross said.

Common Cause also recommended that certain local public officials be excused from the requirement to file financial interest statements. Ross said township constables, members of some boards of review, registers of deeds and drain commissioners should not always have to file such reports.

"We went in with a shorter list," Ross said. "But they (the legislature) went a bit too far." He said the law authorizes local units of government to include other local officials in the reporting requirement if they are not already in the bill.

Common Cause also suggested changes in an amendment which permits the unlimited transfer of political funds between an organization and its affiliates.

Legislative Republicans dropped their support of the bill at the last minute and argued the amendment favored labor unions.

In addition, Common Cause favors "clarification" of the conflict-of-interest chapter as it relates to the sale of state and local bonds, and closing the loophole which permits lobbyists to give state officials free tickets to horse races and other sports events.

And it wants to strengthen the subpoena powers of the Ethics Commission created by the bill. Instead of having to seek a court subpoena, Ross said, the commission should have the power to issue it itself — or at least make it easier to obtain one from a court.

JUDGE ORDERS HEARING

Stage Set In 'Death' Case

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A legal battle that could spell life or death for a comatose young woman unfolds in a courtroom here Monday when opening arguments will be presented in a suit by the woman's father.

Joseph T. Quinlan is seeking a court order directing doctors to disconnect a respirator that kept his 21-year-old adopted daughter, Karen Ann Quinlan, alive since she lapsed into a coma five months ago.

Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. signed a show cause order here Wednesday after it was brought to his chambers by Paul W. Armstrong, attorney for the Quinlan family.

The order asks Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Colleser Jr., St. Clare's Hospital,

Karen's two physicians and her temporary guardian to show why the respirator should not be disconnected. The order also seeks to restrain Colleser from prosecuting Quinlan as a criminal should the suit be successful.

The order is returnable on Monday before Judge Muir.

The 50-year-old Quinlan has said his wife and their two children all have concluded that keeping Karen on a respirator denies her a natural and dignified death.

Quinlan said his decision was a difficult one, "but after lots of prayers I became convinced this is what God's will was, that Karen was being called by Him."

Armstrong said doctors have determined the young woman has irreparable brain damage and there is no hope of recovery.

Quinlan's suit is the first in the nation to seek court authorization in advance for "discontinuance of all extraordinary means sustaining vital processes."

Armstrong said the suit does not seek approval of mercy killing, taking an action to stop life in a person who survives with normal medical care. The suit says extraordinary measures are being used on a patient who has no chance of recovery and would have died otherwise.

The prosecutor entered the case because if Karen is declared alive under the previously accepted legal definition of continued heart function, shutting off the machine could be homicide.

The court has appointed attorney Daniel Coburn to represent Miss Quinlan in the case as her guardian. He has solicited opinions from other doctors as to her condition and prospects for recovery. Coburn has also said he would appeal if the suit is successful.

Detroit Board Preparing New Desegregation Plan

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit School Board has ordered preparation of a school desegregation plan that would require predominately white schools to have a student body which is 40 to 50 per cent black, according to board members.

Board member Gerald J. O'Neill said the plan, ordered at a closed-door meeting of the board Tuesday night, "goes far beyond" the desegregation guidelines established by U.S. District Court Judge Robert DeMascio last month.

However, board president Cornelius Golightly said the plan was within the judge's guidelines.

The new plan would require every white Detroit public school to be at least 40 to 50 per cent black, the board members said.

"We ordered the staff to draw up a plan which would be consistent with the guidelines ordered by the court," Golightly said. He said DeMascio defined a racially integrated school as one 30 to 55 per cent black, and the 40 to 50 per cent guideline ordered by the board fit that definition.

Golightly said nothing decided at the Tuesday's meeting would be official until voted on in a public session.

A public meeting board meeting is scheduled for Friday, when the board must submit a plan to DeMascio. The plan, under the judge's August order, is tentatively set for use in January.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's defense minister says his country is willing to promise it would not put nuclear warheads on missiles that the United States is considering supplying.

"If you want to, we shall give such a guarantee," Shimon Peres said here Wednesday. Earlier, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger confirmed that U.S. consideration of supplying Pershing missiles to Israel is in the Sinai peace accord's secret agreements.

The 400-mile range missiles would put major Arab cities within striking distance of Israel.

Meanwhile, Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco goes before the House International Relations Committee today to try to answer members' demands for more details on all secret agreements involved in the Sinai accord.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said there is still no question that Congress will approve commitment of 200 U.S. technicians to monitor the Sinai peace, but he said action might be delayed until next month so members can get all details on the related secret agreements.

Morgan's committee approved a bill on Wednesday to lift the U.S. arms sales embargo against Turkey and dropped the proposed veto of a missile sale to Jordan.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin repeated in Israel Wednesday that his country will not sign the Sinai peace accord until Congress approves commitment of the technicians to monitor warning stations.

Rabin also said Israel will not sign the final documents for the accord until Egypt permits cargo bound for Israel to move through the Suez Canal.

Kissinger confirmed in Cincinnati, Ohio, that the United States agreed to meet with Israel on supplying such sophisticated missiles as the Pershing, but strongly denied any promise has already been made to deliver them.

Sisco advised the House committee last week of that agreement along with a more general promise that America will be "fully responsive" to Israel's energy, defense and economic assistance needs.

That agreement specifies that the U.S. promise is conditioned on congressional approval and America's ability to afford the aid Israel needs.

Members said Sisco also briefed them on two other secret memoranda that have not become public. But they said the committee now must go through the agreements and find out in detail specifically what they will commit the United States to.

A proposed veto of the Hawk missile sale to Jordan was dropped by the committee after President Ford worked out a compromise with opponents in both the House and Senate.

The opponents won their primary demand, that the Hawk missiles be fixed, not mobile, so they could not be moved to within striking range of Israel.

Russians Agree To Higher Shipping Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Russian agreement to pay higher shipping rates will mean that American tankers can be pulled out of mothballs to carry U.S. grain to the Soviet Union. It also could mark a major step toward a grain-for-oil swap with the Soviets.

Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton disclosed Wednesday that the Soviets have agreed to pay $16 a ton to U.S. ship owners for grain shipments to Russia.

At the old rate of $9.50, it was unprofitable for U.S. flag ships to carry the wheat, corn and other grains to the Soviet Union because of higher labor and operating costs.

The $16-a-ton rate has not yet been signed by U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Moscow, but Morton said the Russians had "given a handshake" on the new scale.

The tentative agreement will mean more jobs for about 1,000 idle U.S. seamen, but a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany said he is still unwilling to declare approval of grain shipments to the Soviet Union.

Meany and maritime unions have called off a boycott of grain shipments for 30 days while American negotiators seek to reduce the impact of sudden grain Russian grain sales on U.S. consumer food prices.

Senators To Act On Size Of Their Own Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is taking up the question of whether an Oct. 1 pay raise for federal employees, including members of Congress, should be 8.66 per cent or 5 per cent. The difference in cost is about $1.6 billion.

President Ford has urged the smaller raise, to help fight inflation and hold down a federal deficit already projected at more than $80 billion this year.

Two hours were allotted for Senate debate before a vote today on a resolution to reject Ford's recommendation.

If a majority votes for the resolution, an 8.66 per cent raise will take effect Oct. 1.

If the Senate defeats the resolution, the President's recommendation to limit the raise to 5 per cent still could be killed by the House. It would have to act before Oct. 1.

This procedure for annual adjustment of federal pay scales is provided for in a 1970 law designed to make federal salaries comparable with those in private industry.

But this year, for the first time, whatever raise takes effect will apply to members of Congress, federal judges, the vice president, Cabinet officers and other top-level government officials. None has had a salary increase since 1968.

Legislation linking their salaries to the annual adjustments for 1.3 million white-collar federal employees and 2.1 million military personnel was passed by Congress just before it started its August recess.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee voted 7 to 2 last week to report a resolution disapproving Ford's proposal for a 5 per cent raise.

However, some of the members said they did so to get the issue before the Senate rather than because they favored an 8.66 per cent raise.

The committee's report estimated the total annual cost of an 8.66 per cent raise, including fringe benefits, at $3.946 billion.

It said Ford's pay advisers, on the basis of data compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, had told him a raise of this amount was necessary to make federal pay scales comparable to those in private industry as of last March.

Under the law, the President may set a lower amount, subject to rejection by either the Senate or the House. Ford said he was doing so in the interest of the economic well-being of the nation as a whole.

The committee said it understood Ford's efforts to control inflation but contended it would be unfair to single out federal employees.

Milliken Adds News Staffer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — WJR Radio newsman Dennis Larson has been hired as the third person on Gov. William Milliken's press staff.

Larson, 33, has been the Detroit station's Lansing editor for 3 1/2 years.

He will become administrative assistant to the governor for press on Oct. 5 at a salary exceeding $22,000 a year. In addition to his press and broadcast duties, Larson will be involved in some programming in the transportation field, says George Weeks, Milliken's executive secretary.

President Ford dispatched a high-level negotiating team to Moscow Sept. 9 with orders to seek agreement from the Russians for guarantees of gradual, minimum grain purchases. Meany had objected that secretly negotiated, large purchases forced rapid rises in the price of bread, meat and other foods.

The chief U.S. negotiator, Undersecretary of State Charles Robinson, says a longer grain agreement is "very likely," but the Meany spokesman said Wednesday the AFL-CIO wants to examine any new arrangement "to make sure it provides price stability for the American consumer."

But apart from that, the new shipping rate will allow 32 tankers, now idle because of the slack worldwide market for oil, to be put into use carrying at least one-third of 8.8 million metric tons of grain purchased by the Soviets this year.

U.S. officials said, meanwhile, there is a good chance that by the time the tankers reach Soviet shores, the Russians may have agreed to provide oil in exchange.

"It's only logical," said one official.

He said the willingness of the Soviets to pay the $16 shipping rate is evidence of how desperately they need additional U.S. grain.

Charles Svenson, a spokesman for the Seafarers International Union, said many tankers have been out of use for up to a year. He said it would take a few days to put most back into use and between 10 to 10 days to sail to the Soviet Union.

Says Judges Not Ignoring Busing Alternatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission says he knows of no judges who, as President Ford charged, have refused to consider alternatives to busing in desegregation cases.

"The commission position is clearly in conflict with the President on busing," Chairman Arthur S. Flemming said Wednesday.

Ford told reporters Tuesday that he was disturbed that "some of the courts" apparently have not followed a year-old law spelling out seven educational options he said should be used "before they use the busing remedy."

But Flemming told the Washington Press Club that he knew of no such cases. He said the commission staff would update its files on the smattering of school desegregation cases that have come before the courts since the law was enacted.

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary William I. Greener said Ford's statements on busing do not mean the President will use the emotional subject as a campaign issue next year.

Meanwhile the Senate defeated 48 to 43 an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., designed to prevent the government from cutting off federal aid to school districts that refuse to bus pupils for desegregation purposes.

Governors Pick Detroit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit has been selected as the site for the 1977 National Governor's Conference, the office of Gov. Milliken announced Wednesday. Milliken's office said the meeting was likely to be held in June of that year. Milliken went to Orlando, Fla., this week, to urge the selection of Detroit to the National Governors' Conference executive committee. The 1978 meeting will be held in Philadelphia. Milliken told the committee Detroit would be a logical place for the meeting because its riverfront Renaissance Center should be completed by then.

New HEW Chief Wants Review Of Agency Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Southern-born new secretary of health, education and welfare wants a review of the HEW policy of threatening to cut off funds from segregated school districts.

Former University of Alabama president David Mathews said in an interview Wednesday, said that the department's fund cutoffs for those who resist desegregation and other federal "social goals" too often hurt the innocent.

Mathews, who has been in office for four weeks, also indicated that the administration may modify previous proposals on national health insurance and welfare reform.

Mathews said the ultimate federal sanction of withholding federal funds from states and public institutions punishes "innocent third parties" such as school children and the poor, and not the agency which violated a federal law or regulation.

"If you ask me if I have some pause about massive penalties directed at everybody as a way of achieving desirable social goals, I would say yes I do," the 39-year-old former educator said.

For that reason, he delayed withholding about $80 million from 10 unidentified states that allegedly failed to meet federal requirements for controlling Medicaid health costs, the secretary said.

"If the purpose of the legislation was to benefit the indigent ill, I really wonder if Congress wants to follow through with penalties that impact on the indigent ill," he said.

"If you follow the same rationale in the criminal justice system I don't think you would get very many people to agree that penalties inconsistent with the crime is a proper way to proceed against individuals," he added.

Mathews made it clear that he will obey the law when it gives him no choice but to withhold funds. But he said that in the Medicaid controversy the law did not set any deadline for his decision until a review has been completed.

State and local governments and higher education institutions all have "great fear" of HEW fund cut-offs, he said.

HEW has over the last 20 years often raised the financial penalty threat to secure compliance including threats to cut off funds from hundreds of segregated Southern school districts in the 1960s.

But only in the case of Ferris, Mich., has HEW permanently withheld money. The threat also has been raised regularly to force states to meet federal welfare requirements but rarely has been followed through.

On other matters, Mathews gave no indication of what type of national health insurance or welfare reform plan would be proposed nor did he say when they would be submitted to Congress.

There has been no direction from the White House on when President Ford's moratorium against new spending legislation will be lifted, he said, "and for the present time, the moratorium is on."

Addressing the Supplemental Security Income controversy, where the government has estimated that overpayments to the aged, blind and disabled may reach $800 million within the program's first 18 months, Mathews called the situation "intolerable."

"This is a problem that has to be addressed vigorously and some solutions found," he said. But he expressed confidence in the Social Security Administration, which administers the program, and in Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell.

BOMBS, EXPLOSIVES FOUND

Conspiracy Plan Uncovered

DENVER (AP) — Police have recovered one bomb and explosives in what they believe was a conspiracy to attack police substations and disrupt the International Association of Chiefs of Police conference.

Capt. Robert Shaughnessy, head of the Denver police bomb squad, said one device made of 27 sticks of dynamite was recovered and detonated as police continued their search early today for more explosives.

"We have information that two more bombs were made," Shaughnessy said. "So far we have not found them and there has been no explosion."

Shaughnessy said "a considerable amount" of explosive material had been recovered. He said two persons have been arrested.

"We received information several days ago there was going to be an attempt to bomb one or more substations or an attack on the IACP convention," Shaughnessy said. "We began conducting an intelligence and surveillance operation with the bomb squad, intelligence and the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agency of the Treasury Department.

"Today, activity seemed to quicken. We found two stolen cars and set up surveillance.

The people we were following began congregating in one house."

Shaughnessy said two persons came out of the house with a package and drove off in one of the stolen cars.

The car was stopped, the two persons were arrested and the bomb was found in the back seat, Shaughnessy said. He said that with the dynamite were a pocket watch, a battery and a plastic blasting cap — a bomb "set to go off."

Arrested were John Haro, 44, and Alfred G. Quintana, 22, both of Denver. Haro was an unsuccessful candidate for mayor in 1971 for the La Raza Unida party.

Unnerving Situation

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Canada's party of the year drew more than 1,300 persons to Parliament Hill on Wednesday night to celebrate the 80th birthday of the country's last Conservative prime minister, John Diefenbaker. "It's a bit unnerving for a Liberal to be celebrating Mr. Diefenbaker's birthday half way through his career," Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau told the crowd at the party organized by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

Sears Catalog Picture Causes Mild Flutter

CHICAGO (AP) — Some folks say there is more than what's supposed to meet the eye on page 802 of the 1975 Sears & Roebuck catalogue.

A thirtyish man, a professional model, is shown wearing boxer shorts. Some observers say you don't need imagination to see what else is shown. Others say you need plenty of it.

Judy Aycock, a Sears spokeswoman, says: "We've had dozens and dozens of calls from the media but have received only several letters from concerned persons."

The 802 man has made the 1975 catalogue the most provocative since the company first began sending them out in 1888.

Ms. Aycock, who prefers that designation, says 15 million copies of the 1,492-page 1975 edition were distributed to company units in the United States when they were published three months ago. If a customer orders $20 or more worth of products she or he gets a catalogue free from the unit. Thousands of households have them.

"We haven't had requests for more catalogues and we would be too busy printing new ones (like Christmas and next spring editions) to turn out more than the 15 million," said Ms. Aycock. "And there was no reprinting of page 802. There was a smudge that got on the printer's plate, that's all."

She said there have been no complaints from the model or the studio he worked out of, and the latest batch of rumors that we are being sued are not true.

Bronson Man Pleads Guilty

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — A 24-year-old Bronson man has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in the stabbing death of another man earlier this year.

Police said David Owens was arrested June 26 in a Bronson tavern in connection with the stabbing of Thomas Winfrey, 23, also of Bronson. Owens stood mute on an open charge of murder at his arraignment last month.

Missaukee Family Files $6 Million Poison Suit

LAKE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A Missaukee County farm family has filed a $6 million suit in connection with the poisoning of their livestock in 1973.

Robert and June Geering of Falmouth, in a suit filed Wednesday in Missaukee County Circuit Court, are seeking $500,000 damages on each of 12 counts.

Defendants in the action include Falmouth Co-op.

Michigan Farm Bureau Services and Michigan Chemical Co.

At the same time, Ellery Lauraine and Robert Williams filed a $750,000 suit in Kalamazoo County, naming the same defendants. Two Wexford County couples sued separately, seeking up to $500,000 each from the same firms.

All the suits claim continuing losses due to poisoning when polybrominated bi-phenyl (PBB), a fire retardant, accidentally was mixed into livestock feed.

At least 40 similar lawsuits against Farm Bureau and Michigan Chemical were on file as of Aug. 1.

A $15 million claim fund created by the two firms has been exhausted.

Officials have labeled the 1973 incident the nation's worst livestock poisoning episode.

Five People Bound Over To Berrien Circuit Court

Five people were bound over to circuit court, two demanded examinations and nine were sentenced in Berrien Fifth District court Wednesday.

Bound over were: Donald G. Roberts, 33, of Buena Terre, Mo., charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct (statutory rape) Sept. 9 in Lake township. He was jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Laura Mae Montgomery, 24, of 380 Ohio street, Benton Harbor, charged with arson of a house at 183 Lake, Benton Harbor, Sept. 7. She continues free on $2,000 bond.

Johnnie Mack Cobb, 22, of Lincoln Park, facing charges of carrying a concealed pistol and receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 — a pick-up truck — Sept. 9 in Benton township. He was released on $3,000 bail. He waived examination.

Eliza Osby, 20, of 323 Pine, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with intent to murder Charles Blunt Sept. 1 in Benton Harbor. Bond of $5,000 was furnished.

Linda L. Fields, 27, of 116 Meadow, Berrien Springs, accused of forging a $50 check July 18 in Oronoko township. She remains free on $2,000 personal recognizance bond.

Demanding examinations were:

Barbara A. Young, 27, of 1016 Pavone, Benton Harbor charged with "maintaining a dwelling which was resorted to by persons using controlled substances" Sept. 15 at her residence. Bond of $5,000 was posted.

William H. Ballard, 28, of 2163 Borg, Benton Heights, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100 — a radio — in Benton township July 16. He posted bond of $2,000 and was freed.

Marriage Berrien Licenses

James Russell Harrington, 28, Sawyer, and Nancy Louise Klindinst, 31, Three Oaks.

Douglas Lee Ransom, 26, Stevensville, and Carol Ann Tiefenbach, 21, St. Joseph.

Robert Ward Hutchins, 24, and Janyce Marie Polmanteer, 21, both of Watervliet.

David Brian Schrouder, 22, and Barbara Ann Regenos, 20, both of Niles.

Dale Raymond Post, 20, St. Joseph, and Joan Colette Bradley, 20, Stevensville.

Darryl Phillip Lynch, 21, Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., and Judith Ann Prince, 19, Watervliet.

Sentenced were: Michael E. Wilson, 17, of 1408 North Kephart, Berrien Springs, three days in jail and fine and costs of $150, or 30 days in jail total, for petty larceny of gasoline Sept. 16 in Soda township.

Robert L. Petznick, 19, of Singer Lake road, Baroda, $150 and six months probation for driving while intoxicated Sept. 17 in Lincoln township.

Christopher Brooks, 23, of 2348 Yankee road, Niles, $150 and six months probation, and Daniel J. Hibbeln, 37, of Caledonia, $200, both for impaired driving.

Diane McDuffie, 23, of 103 Jay, Duwagac, $120 for petty larceny of sunglasses from Benton township Shoppers Fair July 8.

Travis Cotton, 27, of 540 Buena Vista, Benton Harbor, 10 days in jail, $250 and one year probation for driving while license suspended, second offense, Sept. 17 in Benton township.

Naomi Lott, 33, of Detroit, $200 for possession of an unregistered pistol in Benton township Sept. 7.

Floyd L. Hardy, 20, of 149 Kline, Benton Harbor, $51 for disorderly person — indecent language — in Benton Harbor Sept. 18.

Jerome Headspeth, 20, of 1850 Highland, Benton Harbor, 10 days in jail and $150, or 30 days in jail total, for petty larceny of steak from Jewel Foods, Benton township, Sept. 17.

Wife Of Chairman Mao Cast In 'Comeback' Role

TOKYO (AP) — After a long period in the background, Chairman Mao Tse-tung's 81-year-old wife, Chiang Ching, again appears to be moving back to the center of the stage in Peking.

Hsinhua, the official news agency, reported that she made "an important speech" on Monday to a national conference on agriculture in Shaanxi Province. It was the first report of a speech by her since her fiery leadership of the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution.

What she said has not been reported. But on Wednesday, the agency distributed a picture of her digging in a field near the conference site. She was in pants, with her sleeves rolled up to the elbows and had a scarf around her head. The photograph, emphasizing the importance of agricultural development, appeared in all Chinese newspapers, Hsinhua said.

A member of the Communist party Politburo but not of its smaller standing committee, Chiang Ching is a former Shanghai actress who used to specialize in cultural affairs.

During the Cultural Revolution she was the spokeswoman for the radical wing of the party and the patroness of the violent young Red Guard.

Her swift rise to power during that period leveled off after the army, led by old-guard moderates, gained the ascendancy.

Her influence was diminished further by the disgrace of her Cultural Revolution associates, Defense Minister Lin Biao and Mao's former secretary, Chen Po-ta, and the re-emergence of such prominent victims of the purge as Teng Hsiao-ping.

Petition Is Filed To Probate Estate

A petition has been filed in Berrien Probate court to admit to probate the $150,000 estate of Mrs. Mildred L. Alcott, 71, of Spinks Corners, who died Aug. 28.

Mrs. Alcott's husband, William, who died in 1963, operated the Spinks Corners Grocery and Supply Co. for many years. Mrs. Alcott resided at 1551 South Park road.

Her 1964 will bequeaths $100,000 in real property and $50,000 in personal property to be divided in equal shares between her son, Jack M. Alcott, of 1451 South Park road, Spinks Corners, and her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Crow, of Galesburg.

Appeals Court Reverses Itself In Berrien Case

By SOUTI WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

The Michigan Court of Appeals has reversed its position on a Berrien Circuit court case in which a Detroit man was convicted of possession of heroin.

The appeals court has now upheld the conviction of Ervin Eugene Lumpkin, 36, who was convicted by Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns in a non-jury trial in 1973 and sentenced to 18 months to 4 years in prison. Lumpkin was convicted of possessing heroin Aug. 23, 1972, after a car in which he was riding was stopped by state police on I-94 in New Buffalo township. The heroin was found in a shaving kit in the trunk of the car.

The appeals court originally reversed the conviction, holding Lumpkin did not voluntarily consent to the warrantless search and the "consent" was coerced.

The Michigan Supreme Court then ordered the appellate court to again review the case, and the appeals court in its latest opinion upheld the conviction, holding "the consent given by defendant was not the product of duress or coercion."

"We hold . . . the search was reasonable," the court ruled, "and that it was not error for the (judge) to admit the fruits of that search into evidence."

Colonial Postage: A Penny A Letter, And Slow

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

To Americans facing the prospect of paying 13 cents to mail a letter, the charge of a penny a letter more than 300 years ago seems like a bargain.

The cost was low, but the service was slow and uncertain. Communication in the American colonies was haphazard, as indeed it was in Europe in the same era.

The post rider was the principal means of communication during the colonial period. Each rider was commissioned by the British government. One rider, Peter Mumford, was among those who rode the circuit from Boston to Newport, R.I., in 1773, a trip that required about 26 hours with three changes of horses.

He received 40 pounds a year and was supposed to deliver and accept mail only. But many post riders also worked for newspaper publishers, soliciting subscriptions, collecting accounts and delivering bundles of papers to taverns—all illegal.

These transactions slowed the service, already plagued by poor roads and a lack of bridges. Some riders also opened all their newspapers at each stop, allowing the local printer to extract and summarize the news for his own paper. The riders served as the main news carriers for the first 100 years of American journalism—until the early part of the 19th century.

The post office made its first appearance in the colonies in 1639, when the general court of Massachusetts decreed:

"It is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks, his house in Boston, is the place appointed for all letters, which are brought from beyond the seas, or are sent thither, to be left with him, and he is to take care that they are to be delivered or sent according to direction; and he is allowed for every letter a penny."

A postal service was established in Virginia in 1657. Every planter was required to provide a messenger to deliver dispatches to the next plantation. The penalty for failure: a hoghead of tobacco.

New York set up a New York-Boston mail service in 1672, with one trip monthly. Connecticut established a postal service in 1674. William Penn established a post office in Philadelphia in 1683, with weekly mail to places near the city. About the same time he set up service from Philadelphia to the larger towns of Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The American post proper dates from a patent on Feb. 17, 1691, issued to Thomas Neale. He and the royal postmaster general appointed Andrew Hamilton as the colonial postmaster general. Service began on May 1, 1693, with weekly runs from Portsmouth, N.H., to New York, Philadelphia and points in Maryland and Virginia. Five riders were engaged to cover five stages of the trip. In winter the service was every two weeks.

The colonists disliked the system because of the cost of postage and because authorities could open the mail to see if it contained evidence of disloyalty to the king.

Benjamin Franklin was appointed the first postmaster general by the Continental Congress on July 26, 1775, at a salary of $1,000 a year. He switched to diplomacy a year later and was succeeded by his son-in-law, Richard Bache. Franklin, however, already had made important contributions to the mail service. Disturbed by its inadequacies, he had agreed to become Philadelphia's postmaster in 1737. He impressed the British government and in 1753 became deputy postmaster general for all the colonies.

Franklin established the first city delivery service, the first dead-mail office, employed the fastest packet ships across the Atlantic, hired more post riders and required them to ride night and day. He also helped Canada set up its first postal service and inaugurated a Montreal-New York messenger service.

In 1782, an act was passed authorizing the postmaster general to set up a line of posts between New Hampshire and Georgia. In 1779 Congress repealed a law imposing the death penalty for robbing the mails. Flogging was substituted. Later the penalty was reduced to imprisonment.

The 1782 act also decreed that private letters could not be opened or delayed by postal authorities. Until then the mail service was primarily for use by the government, and private citizens used it at their risk.

Another of the founding fathers who insisted on an efficient mail service was George Washington. He personally helped in surveying post routes to speed the mails.

Samuel Osgood was named the first postmaster general under the new Constitution. That was in 1789, when there were 75 post offices and fewer than 2,000 miles of post roads in the country.

Postage was in money, with prepayment optional. The first stamps were not issued until 1847. They bore the likenesses of Franklin and Jefferson.

Learning Center Session Slated By Teachers Unit

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Teacher Education Council will sponsor a Learning Center workshop Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 4:30 p.m., at the Mars elementary school here. Registration fee at the door is $3.

The workshop will be divided into two sessions; structured sessions where each session begins at a specific time, and browse sessions, where those attending will be able to walk through at their leisure. Three commercial companies will also display their wares.

TV SHOW DEBUTS SATURDAY

For Now, Cosell Has No Comment

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This Saturday, Howard Cosell starts hosting a live one-hour variety show from Gotham for the ABC Television network. Since he is no shrinking violet, we'll ask him about it.

Q: It is well known that from a humble Brooklyn beginning you have achieved a state of salubrious success as a caster of sports with a pronounced propensity for telling it like it is, as it were.

Why then, one must ask, are you entering this new arena as a common hawk of stars, song and the dance?

A: (There was no reply from Mr. Cosell.)

Q: Don't you think — and forgive me for wondering out loud — that you are spreading yourself too thin in donning the greasepaint while still covering athletic feats and, sequentially speaking, toes?

A: (There was no reply from Mr. Cosell.)

Q: About the variety show. As you no doubt are aware, the last sports reporter to make it as a TV master of ceremonies was the late Ed Sullivan, about whom Bing Crosby once remarked: "While he doesn't sing, dance or tell jokes, he does them equally well."

Will you emulate Mr. Sullivan or will you just stand there?

A: (There was no reply from Mr. Cosell.)

Q: It is said you may run for the U.S. Senate someday, and indeed you've publicly mused about it. To put it to you bluntly, do you actually plan to deposit your derby in a circular frame of political reference, or, as it were, toss your hat in the ring?

A: (There was no reply from Mr. Cosell.)

Q: Last question: If you as a variety vendor fail to achieve the critical success of Muhammed Ali's variety show last week — and there are those, mainly at NBC and CBS, who say this will happen — must you try again in the future or will you content yourself seeking bit parts in Alex Karras movies?

A: (There was no reply from Mr. Cosell.)

A trian at ABC explained why there were no replies.

He said Mr. Cosell "has put an absolute ban on interviews until after the premiere of his show. He wants to spend as much time as possible putting it together."

"Also, he's nervous."

At this point, the sun rose in the West and the interview, as it were, ended.

ing car, villains, a really amazing closing shootout and such lines as this one about a former flying hero: "In fact, he's in trouble right up to his tail assembly."

Union Politics For Hoffa Son?

DETROIT (AP) — James P. Hoffa, son of the missing ex-Teamsters president, said he is being urged to step into union politics.

The 33-year-old Hoffa, whose father, James R., dropped from sight July 30, probably could muster the votes to win election to his father's old union local in Detroit, one Teamster source said late Wednesday.

"He could run for president of Local 299 and win on the Hoffa name and on martyrdom," said the union source, who asked not to be identified.

Local 299, the Teamsters' third largest unit, was organized by James R. Hoffa into a springboard for his rise to the presidency in the 1950s.

The elder Hoffa vanished July 30 and was last seen standing outside a fashionable Detroit restaurant. His son said last week he believed his father was assassinated.

"I've been under a lot of pressure to make a move (into Teamster politics)," the young Hoffa told the Detroit Free Press. "I have a law career to think about. I want to give any change a lot of thought."

James P. Hoffa visits Teamster locals in the Detroit area regularly on legal matters, for which he is paid a retainer. He has received wildly enthusiastic receptions lately, a Teamsters official said.

"It's the Yablonski thing," said a Teamsters source. "He could be elected locally."

Joseph Yablonski was an official in the United Mine Workers union who was murdered along with his family. Convicted in connection with the killings was ex-UMW President W. A. "Tony"

Boyle.

Meanwhile, a federal grand jury continued its probe of the Hoffa case.

Brenda O'Brien, wife of a central figure in the Hoffa case, was given a reprieve from a scheduled grand jury appearance.

The federal government had subpoenaed Mrs. O'Brien, but accepted an excuse Wednesday from her doctor which stated "the likelihood of an emotional collapse would result" if she testified.

Her grand jury appearance scheduled for Thursday was postponed indefinitely, but a stipulation filed with U.S. District Judge James P. Churchill said she will again be recalled when her "hysterical neurosis is abated."

In June, Mrs. O'Brien, the former Brenda Lou Berger Goldsmith of West Memphis, Ark., married Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, a 41-year-old Teamsters organizer who was raised by the Hoffa family.

O'Brien was driving a car belonging to the son of a reputed Mafia chieftain in the vicinity of a fashionable suburban Detroit restaurant where the ex-Teamster boss was last seen on the day Hoffa vanished.

O'Brien, 41, took the Fifth Amendment when he appeared before the grand jury Sept. 3.

One grand jury witness Wednesday was Mike Larco, co-owner of Larco's Restaurant in Detroit.

The FBI interviewed Larco earlier in connection with reports of an alleged meeting between Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons and two reputed Mafia figures at the restaurant four or five days before Hoffa vanished.

Larco told reporters no such meeting occurred.

Something new has been added to our passbook savings...

—and it's earned on a daily basis

October 1, ICB will start paying 5% interest to give you a 25% raise on your passbook savings... and this new, higher, annual interest rate will be earned on a daily basis, from day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal, to put even more dollars in your pocket.

For example, during a quarter if you have $300 in your regular savings account, then for a week you withdraw $250 to bring your balance down to $50. Many banks would give you credit for having only $50 in your account for the entire quarter, because they figure your interest on the low balance. But ICB would credit you with the interest on the full $300 each day it's in your account... and on $50 for just the one week. So our daily interest credits you every day for every dollar you save.

Why should you be penalized when you need to use your money? Withdraw it when you need it... put it back when you don't.

So bring or mail us your authorization form, recently mailed to you, because we can't convert your passbook savings to 5% until you do.

And, if you presently don't have a passbook savings account at ICB, now's an excellent time to establish one, so your money can work harder for you. As little as a dollar opens your account... bank and save at ICB, the action bank.

Pregnant Women Among 5 Given Death Sentences

MADRID, Spain. (AP) — A military court today sentenced two young pregnant women and three young men to death for the killing of a lieutenant in the national police.

It was thought likely that Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Spanish chief of state, would commute the sentences of the two women to life imprisonment, not only because of their pregnancy but also because no woman has been executed in Spain in the 36 years since Franco came to power.

The verdict was the first handed down under the Franco government's Spain's new anti-terrorism law, which makes the death penalty mandatory for anyone killing a policeman as an act of terrorism. The law also bars appeals to the Supreme Military Tribunal although Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the chief of state, can grant clemency.

Francisco and the cabinet are to meet Friday to "take note" of the death sentences. They then must be carried out within 12 hours unless Franco commutes them.

A fourth young man was sentenced to 20 years in jail.

The six were tried Wednesday at an army barracks 10 miles north of Madrid. The trial got under way late Wednesday afternoon after hours of courtroom skirmishing during which the court expelled five of the defense lawyers because of repeated interruptions.

The court appointed army lawyers to represent the five defendants who were later condemned, and the testimony and arguments lasted slightly more than two hours.

The five young people who were condemned admitted they were members of the outlawed Revolutionary Anti-Fascist Patriotic Front (FRAP), which the government described as the Marxist "action wing" of the "Marxist-Leninist Communist party of Spain."

The sixth defendant told the court he was a FRAP sympathizer but not a member.

Those condemned to die were Maria Jesus Dusca Penellay, a 30-year-old student; Concepcion Trislan Lopez, 21, a nurse; Jose Sanchez-Bravo Solias, 21, student; Manuel Canaveras de Gracia, 20-year-old student, and Ramon Garcia Sanaz, a 27-year-old metalworker.

Jose Penellay, a 29-year-old biology teacher, was given 20 years in jail although the prosecutor demanded 30.

The two girls' army lawyers told the court they were pregnant. They did not identify the fathers.

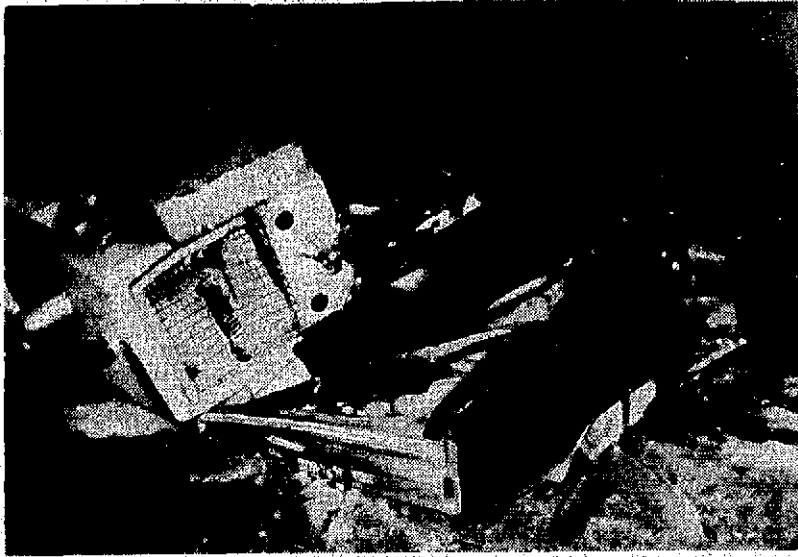

Ten persons are now in Spanish prisons under sentence of death. The others are two Basque nationalists sentenced last month and three other FRAP members sentenced early this month. But they were allowed to appeal to the Supreme Military Tribunal because the new law did not apply to them.

Reports from Barcelona said the death penalty would be demanded at the military trial there Friday of another Basque nationalist, 21-year-old Juan Paredes Manot, who is accused of killing an armed policeman during a bank robbery there three months ago.

Only three persons have been executed in Spain in the past 10 years, all for killing policemen. The young people tried on Wednesday were accused of killing Lt. Antonio Pose Rodriguez of the Guardia Civil in Madrid on Aug. 16.

The prosecutor told the court Garcia Sanaz shot the lieutenant at close range with a sawed-off shotgun supplied by Canaveras de Gracia. He said Sanchez-Bravo was in charge of the killing but the two girls gave him his orders.

Penellay contended that he was an unwilling participant with only a minor part, and the court apparently accepted this.

FATAL ACCIDENT: Large front-end loader lies toppled on trunk of car after collision in which 19-year-old Benton township woman was killed Wednesday night a short distance from her home. Entire top of car was ripped off in head-on collision on Britain avenue. Police have issued no citations or filed any charges pending further investigation. Story on page 1. (C.C. Brooks photo) lential.

"They had it stuffed in their pockets and in a bag. When they surrendered, the one with the bag threw up his hands and threw out about $10,000 in the pasture," he said.

Fortunately there was no wind.

Chapman was asked if Wednesday's robbery was indicative of how the people feel about Caddo Mills.

"You'd be surprised how people come out of the walls and cracks when a problem arises in a little town."

Andrews Official On Advisory Panel

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Leonard Hill, library supervisor of periodical services at Andrews university here, has been appointed to a 34-biennial advisory committee for the Michigan department of education.

He was nominated to the committee by Bernard Oppenheimer, president of the Michigan Library association. Hill will represent the association with 4,000 members, through 1976.

The advisory committee will work with the Michigan Bicentennial commission on all education-related programs and activities, said Dr. John W. Porter, the state superintendent of public instruction.

Others on the committee represent other segments of Michigan's educational establishment.

Car Blaze Blamed On House Fire

Fire, believed to have started in a car, spread to a house at 1150 Union Street early today, causing extensive damage to one exterior side of the home, Benton Harbor firemen reported.

Firemen said cause of the 1:05 a.m. blaze at the home of Eddie Mae Atkins and to the 1971 Ford is under investigation by fire officials and city police. The car was left parked in the driveway and the interior was completely destroyed. Damage to the car and house was estimated at $3,000.

Mrs. Atkins said she was awakened by a call from a neighbor and she and her five children escaped the home unharmed.

SJ Teachers Tell Demands

St. Joseph teachers outlined their request for a 9.1 per cent financial package increase before nearly 800 people last night at the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The "Talk to a Teacher" meeting, originally scheduled for the high school cafeteria, was moved to the auditorium when some 650 parents showed up for the meeting. In addition, approximately 150 teachers were also present.

St. Joseph teachers have been working without a master contract since the start of the 1975-1976 school year.

Joe C. Collins, high school instructor and moderator, said the 9.1 per cent increase covered a five per cent increase in retirement and 4.1 per cent for increase benefits in health and life insurance and base pay. Less than two per cent of the 4.1 requested is for health and life insurance benefits — the remainder is for the base pay hike.

Next year, the retirement pay by state law will be paid by the school. The teachers are asking that the school pay the retirement this year.

Originally it had been planned to have the teachers answer questions in small groups, but when the meeting was moved to the auditorium, the format was changed and members of the audience wrote out questions for the teachers to answer.

Richard Maxam, president of the St. Joseph Education Association which represents St. Joseph teachers, estimated that approximately 65 questions were forwarded to the teachers.

He said many of the questions concerned an explanation of binding arbitration. He said the SJEA has offered to split the cost of binding arbitration if the school board will use the facilities of the American Arbitration Association. Collins opened the session with a statement on the teachers' position including their request for the 9.1 per cent increase.

Following 35 minutes of teachers answering questions, members of the audience and teachers broke up into informal groups.

Cass County Would Take Over Road

DOWAGIAC — Silver Creek township officials announced last night that the Cass county road commission will take over, pave and maintain Forest Beach road near Indian lake if a majority of property owners along the road agree.

The presently private road has been the subject of complaints for several years by Indian lake residents who complained of its general poor condition.

Township officials said road commission authorities are to schedule a meeting with property owners along the road to determine if 65 per cent of them are in favor of having the road made a public one.

In other areas, the township board appropriated extra funds for the financially troubled Indian Lake fire department.

A spokesman for the department said bills in the past year have amounted to $17,000 while the one mill it gets produced $7,700.

The township board appropriated another estimated $1,000 for the remainder of the calendar year and said it would take under study other funding possibilities.

The volunteer fire department provides protection for residents and businesses in part of the township.

The board also promised a township resident, J. B. Love, accelerated action on his request for a zoning variance to permit construction of mobile, modular and conventional dwellings on a 63-acre parcel of land he owns along School street near Indian lake.

Love said in a letter through his attorney that he has been waiting for township board action on his zoning variance request for 3½ years.

The township board several years ago amended the zoning ordinance to permit granting of variances in some areas. Love's land is now zoned agricultural.

$1.5 Million Loan Is Approved For New Saluto Plant

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Commerce has approved a $1,500,000 loan to help Saluto Foods build a $3,840,000 plant in Watervliet, according to an announcement from the federal agency.

Rogers C.B. Morton, secretary of commerce, said the new plant will create 125 jobs in the production of frozen pizza and related food products.

He said the loan was made through the commerce department's Economic Development administration.

According to the federal announcement, besides the federal loan, Saluto has obtained a $1,850,000 loan from a private source, $182,000 from a local development firm, and will provide $1,098,000 of its own funds towards construction.

The city of Watervliet has received a $75,000 grant from the federal Farmer's Home administration to provide sewer and water facilities to the industrial park where Saluto is scheduled to build its new plant.

The EDA loan is repayable in 20 years at an annual interest rate of eight and one-eighth per cent, Morton said in the announcement.

Saluto foods currently employs about 210 people, the commerce news release said.

Mistrial Declared In Paw Paw Case

PAW PAW — Judge David Anderson, Jr. yesterday declared a mistrial in the Van Buren circuit court trial of a Paw Paw teacher accused of having sexual relations with a 12-year-old boy student at the school where he worked.

Anderson's ruling came during the second day of the trial of Thomas L. Hawley, 29, Portage, who is charged with first-degree criminal sexual conduct.

According to Van Buren Prosecutor Frank D. Willis, the dismissal came after what Anderson considered to be a procedural error in the trial involving the admissibility of a statement Hawley made at the time of his arrest to Paw Paw Police Chief George Fadel.

Willis said Defense Atty. Richard Howard asked for the mistrial after he (Willis) had asked Fadel what Hawley's demeanor was while he was being questioned during an investigation into the case.

Anderson, Willis said, ruled that any statement made by Hawley to Fadel should have been covered in an earlier hearing to determine what evidence or admissions made by a defendant may be used in his trial.

Willis said he did not include Fadel in Hawley's Walker hearing Aug. 7 because he did not believe at the time the police chief would have to testify about any statements Hawley made to him.

The ruling means, Willis said, that Hawley will have a new trial following another Walker hearing. The trial will probably have to be delayed about three months until the next term of court when there is a new jury panel, he said.

Hawley was suspended with pay following his arrest in May on the charge, which states that the alleged relations took place during the first week in April.

Hawley's trial had been started Tuesday under a ruling by Judge Anderson which kept spectators and news media representatives out. The jury had been selected Tuesday and witnesses had begun testifying Wednesday when the mistrial was declared.

Convicts Escape In DNR Truck

KINGSLEY, Mich. (AP) — Police in Northern Lower Michigan sought two escapees today after the men fled a state-owned truck.

Grand Traverse County sheriff's deputies said the escape occurred Wednesday night at Camp Pugsley near Kingsley.

The escapees were identified as Jack Lown, 25, of Traverse City, serving 25 to 50 years for second-degree murder in the slaying of a Traverse City bartender, and Dennis Blackford, 30, of Lambertville. Authorities were unable to say why Blackford was imprisoned.

The pair escaped in a two-ton flatbed truck owned by the Department of Natural Resources.

Warnings Of 1973 War Kept Too Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Middle East war in 1973 caught the United States by surprise because intelligence agencies denied key officials access to information that could have given advance warning, the chairman of the House Intelligence Committee said today.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said communications intercepted by U.S. intelligence "show a real red flag that something was about to happen. It should have alerted us that a war was about to break out."

Instead, Pike said in an interview on the CBS "Morning News," intelligence agency secrecy required that the information be classified at a level that kept it out of reach of some officials who could have acted upon it.

There is a "mana for secrecy in certain areas of our government and the secrecy itself sometimes gets in the way of intelligence," he said.

Pike's committee was to continue hearings today, taking up a study of U.S. intelligence prior to the 1968 Tet offensive in Vietnam.

The committee offered a compromise Wednesday in its dispute with the White House over whether it can make public secret material from the intelligence agencies relevant to its investigation.

Committee members said they would give 24 hours advance warning before making any such material public. There was no immediate comment from the administration.

Pike said four words in a secret report made public by his committee over the objection of intelligence agency officials showed only that U.S. intelligence agencies were "stumbling over their own secrecy."

The four words revealed that the United States was intercepting Egyptian communications. After the words were made public, President Ford ordered intelligence agencies to withhold classified material from Pike's committee and ask for the return of documents already in the hands of the congressmen.

Pike said it could be no surprise for the Egyptians to find their communications had been intercepted by the United States because communications have been monitored "since the days of the smoke signal."

He reiterated his feeling that the committee will go to court if necessary to enforce its subpoenas of secret documents from the White House. But in the meantime, he said, the committee will continue to function.

"I think they wanted to stop our committee, but they haven't stopped our committee," he said.

The committee's ranking Republican, Robert McClory of Illinois, said he was afraid the White House might attempt to impose new restrictions on the panel.

"I hope this notification agreement induces the kind of cooperation the committee needs from the White House, and at this point I don't have such assurances," he said.

August Was Wettest Of Eight Very Damp Months

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Do you think there's been a lot of rain in southwestern Michigan this summer? You're right — especially in August.

For the four-week period from Aug. 5 to Sept. 4, four reporting stations in this area recorded rainfall ranging from 95 per cent to 195 per cent above normal, according to Jack Cooley, meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Grand Rapids.

Cooley said during that period Sodus was pelted with 5.88 inches of rain, compared to its normal 2.43 inches, while Watervliet was drenched with 6.28 inches (compared to normal

2.51) and Paw Paw was washed in 8.11 inches — almost three times the normal 2.74.

"In my memory — and I've been doing this for 32 years — we've never had this much rain in August," said Harry Bush, superintendent of public works and weather observer in Paw Paw.

Eau Claire grower Herb Teichman, an observer cooperating with the National Weather Service, said that Eau Claire received 5.72 inches of rain last month. Average August rainfall at the station, one of the oldest in Michigan, is 2.94 inches.

At the Eau Claire station, which has logged precipitation and temperature records every day since May 1, 1924, precipitation for the first eight months of this year was 25 per cent above normal.

As of Aug. 31, Teichman reports 20.89 inches of precipitation (rain, snow, hail) compared to the average of 23.82 inches. Precipitation has been above normal every month except June, when it fell short of the average by one-third of an inch.

From April 1 to Sept. 1 — a period observers call the "growing season" — precipitation at the Eau Claire station was 21.30 inches, compared to an average of 17.46 inches.

For other stations April 1 to Sept. 1 rainfall, with growing season averages in parentheses, was:

Paw Paw 31.92 inches (22.48 inches), Sodus 23.26 inches (22.46 inches) and Watervliet 27.30 inches (22.38 inches).

If August was a rain month, June was a thunder month, said Teichman. His log notes eight days in June with thunder. Then in August there was a "terrific" lightning storm that lasted all night.

In May rain gauges in Eau Claire measured over one inch of rain on three different days, the 6th, 21st and 30th.

It was on May 20 that the Twin Cities area was hit by a storm that featured 93 mile an hour winds, rain, lightning and hail.

Grape, Wine Festival To Open Tonight

PAW PAW — This community's eighth annual salute to the grape and wine industries opens tonight at 6 p.m. with a talent show of professional and local entertainers performing at the Michigan avenue school outdoor stage.

The four-day festival closes Sunday night and festival planners have said they anticipate some 75,000 visitors to taste wine and attend dances, plays and other events.

The wine tasting tent will be open Friday through Sunday, and there will be offered tours of the area's four major wineries, St. Julian, Warner's and Frontenac in Paw Paw and Bronte in Hartford.

Miss Julie Ann Beckers of Allegan, the state's reigning Miss Michigan, will formally open the festival in a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Friday, in the downtown park.

In the downtown area, there will be carnival rides, food, arts and crafts and other concession stands; and among scheduled events are fireworks over Maple Lake at 9 p.m., Saturday; helicopter rides Friday (from 5 p.m.) and all day Saturday and Sunday at the high school; and Saturday's grand parade that begins at 1 p.m.

The festival is scheduled to coincide with the peak of the grape harvest.

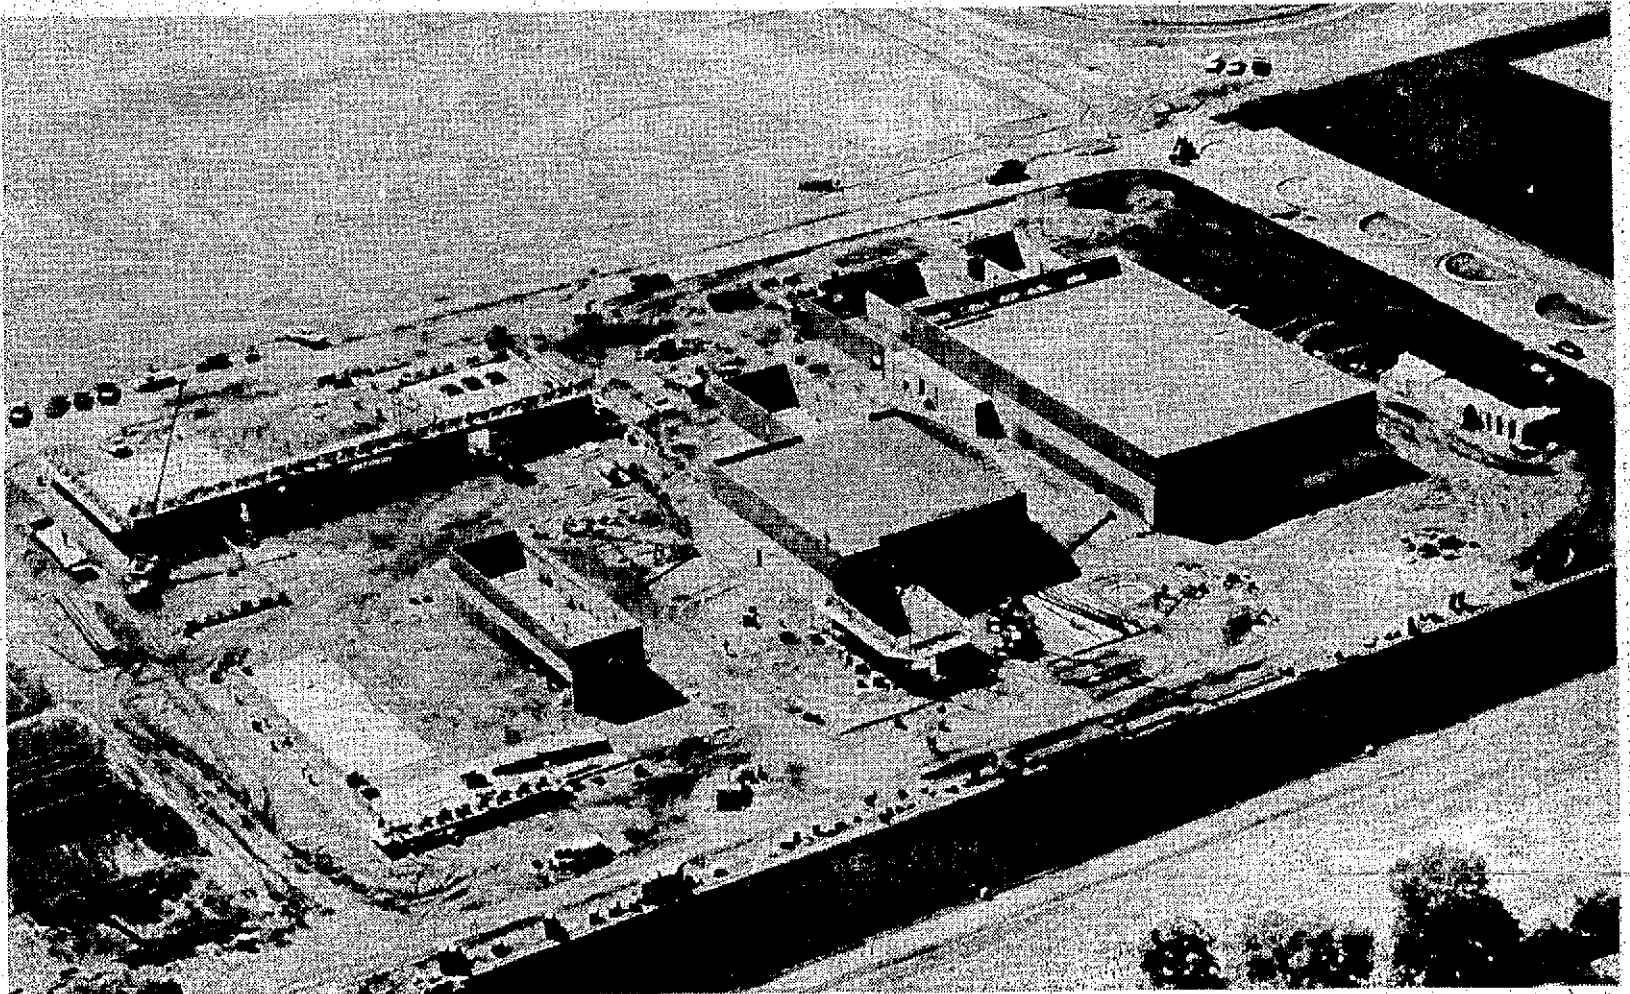

Wrong-Way
Crash Kills
3 On I-96

BRIGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Three persons were killed early today when a wrong-way driver collided head-on with another car on Interstate 96 in Livingston County.

State Police at the Brighton post identified the wrong-way driver as Gregg Temple, 37, of Howell. They said he was alone in his car going west in the eastbound lane.

The victims in the other car were identified as Richard Gilme, 57, of Brighton and Richard Krolewski, 34, of Pinckney.

The investigation of the incident was continuing.

HEARING EXAMINER REVOKES SUBPOENAS

Genesee Prosecutor Loses PSC Fight

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A consumer-activist prosecutor may have suffered a permanent setback Wednesday in his attempt to probe the inner workings of the state Public Service Commission in a controversial rate case.

A PSC hearing examiner revoked subpoenas issued for the appearances of a former PSC chairman, the head of Consumers' Power Co. and another PSC commissioner. The action all but ended the participation of Genesee County Prosecutor Robert Leonard in a Consumers Power rate case.

Leonard's assistant, Sheldon Siegel, said Leonard may appeal the quashing of the subpoenas to the full commission. But it appeared unlikely the three men would ever be forced to appear.

Leonard wanted to cross-examine former PSC Chairman William Rosenberg, Consumers board chairman A.H. Aymond and PSC Commissioner Lenon, Sculthorp. He planned to ask about Rosenberg's relationship and contacts with Consumer, implying they biased his decisions in favor of the utilities.

But the ruling Wednesday left him with only two subpoenaed witnesses to quiz — Tom Hancock, PSC chief of staff, and William Whitbeck, former chief of policy. Rosenberg and Aymond, however, gave depositions early under examination by Siegel.

Leonard had called for Rosenberg to disqualify himself from the Consumers case, although Rosenberg's resignation to accept a federal energy post made that unnecessary.

Consumers Power is asking the PSC for a $54 million increase in its rates. The commission voted 2-1 — with Rosenberg in favor — of granting an interim hike of $29 million.

A key in the case is whether the PSC will permit Consumers to pass along to its customers any more of the expense of its costly Marysville gas reforming plant. The PSC already has told Consumers it can recoup $120 million of the full $156 million cost that way.

The remainder is up for a decision in the current case. With the subpoenas quashed, the case will soon go to the full commission.

Rosenberg has acknowledged that he urged a private consultant to include in his report the recommendation that Consumers Power be permitted to pass the extra Marysville cost along. Leonard cited this as an indication that Rosenberg was too cozy with the utilities.

But Robert Hollenshead, hearing examiner and administrative law judge, said Wednesday there was little indication that Rosenberg, Aymond or Sculthorp could provide more relevant evidence on the Marysville cost question — the only matter specifically at issue in the hearing. He said there is nothing wrong with PSC commissioners discussing with utility officials their problems or proposed solutions to them.

He said subpoenas against Sculthorp and Rosenberg were "fishing expeditions," and said a second subpoena against Rosenberg was technically deficient because Leonard had not provided witness fees in serving it.

He also said Aymond could not likely provide further evidence relevant to the case.

"If Mr. Rosenberg were on the commission, we'd have an argument about his bias," Hollenshead said. "But he is no longer on the commission, and the point is moot."

Annual Watervliet
Combined Appeal
Starts Saturday

WATERVLIET — The annual Watervliet Combined Appeal will officially get underway here Saturday, Sept. 20, with a goal of $7,000, to support 25 health, welfare and recreational services.

The 1975 campaign chairman, Mrs. Albert (Audrey) Steffens, president of the Combined Appeals board, said this year's goal is $1,000 less than 1974's campaign goal of $8,000 because of the economic conditions in the area.

According to Mrs. Steffens, $4,000 of the overall campaign goal will be allocated to seven agencies in Watervliet and Berrien county, with the remaining $2,000 going to state and national charities.

The Watervliet Combined Appeal was first formed in 1960.

According to Mrs. Steffens, volunteer workers will call on residents at their home or place of business during the campaign which is expected to continue until next spring.

Individuals or firms may mail their check or pledge directly to the Watervliet Combined Appeal Treasurer, Mrs. Jordan (Mary) Tatter, route 3, box 153, Watervliet.

New officers of the Combined Appeal board of directors, elected earlier this month, besides Mrs. Steffens and Mrs. Tatter, include: Lorna Pratt, vice president; Henrietta Frazier, secretary; and board members David Shokes, Margaret Shadduck, Bill Whitney, Rev. Harvey Lord and Ron Levine.

NFL's Opening Weekend Schedule In Doubt

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

National Football League players and owners continued to sweat out their contract talks through Thursday's early morning hours in heated negotiations before top federal mediator W.J. Usery at the New York headquarters of the NFL Management Council.

The climate had warmed considerably at NFL Management Council headquarters where the talks were taking place. Air conditioning in the building was shut off automatically at 6 p.m., EDT, and all the windows were sealed shut.

"Buy! That's what I call sweating out a contract," said Wellington Mara, owner of the striking New York Giants and a member of the six-man NFLMC executive committee which has the power to cancel games or seasons.

With five curtain raisers now threatened after the Detroit Lions and New York Giants raised to five the number of striking teams, the battling groups were running out of time-outs while attempting to settle their dispute before Sunday's start of the regular season.

Usery, a White House labor troubleshooter, convened the new talks early in the evening. Executive Director Ed Garvey represented the NFL Players Association along with attorney Leonard Lindquist of Minneapolis.

The Lions and Giants joined the New England Patriots, Washington Redskins and New York Jets as striking teams, highlighting a hectic afternoon of player meetings in which the following other developments took place:

—Defensive stalwarts Alan Page, Jim Marshall and Bobby Bryant walked out of Minnesota Vikings camp in support of the strike. Coach Bud Grant said he had excused them from practice. "I have respect for their feelings and will continue to have as long as we maintain communication," said Grant.

—The Pittsburgh Steelers, Los Angeles Rams, Cleveland Browns, New Orleans Saints, Denver Broncos, Atlanta Falcons and Buffalo Bills voted not to join the strike, a decision already made by the Dallas Cowboys, Miami Dolphins, Houston Oilers and Minnesota Vikings. That brought to 11 the total of non-striking teams and to 16 the total of clubs which have made their decisions clear.

—There was little reason to believe that strong pro-strike action would be taken by the remaining 10 teams. The Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears have said they would go out only if all the other teams do; the San Diego Chargers voted Wednesday to continue practicing while waiting for further developments; Kansas City, Oakland and St. Louis had not yet decided on action while continuing to work out. Cincinnati and Philadelphia are opposed to the strike.

The two remaining clubs, the Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers, pulled the strangest moves of the day. The Packers voted on whether to join the strike, but decided unanimously not to reveal the position they had taken. The 49ers took a vote of some kind, then put the ballot box away before counting its contents.

The strongest non-strike stance was taken by the Bills. Player representative Reggie McKenzie said, "We can not in full confidence support the existing player strike while Ed Garvey is still the existing head of the players association. Until such time as he is removed from the job, we and the team will continue to work."

Garvey maintained optimism that "it is quite possible to get the thing resolved as long as there is a showing of good faith on the side of the owners." He added, however, "If the games are going to be saved Sunday, today is critical."

The opinion was not shared wholeheartedly by management, whose executive committee stated after a 90-minute meeting Wednesday morning: "There will be games played in the NFL this weekend."

It remained to be seen, however, what form the schedule would take. Conjecture abounded Wednesday.

One thought was that striking teams would forfeit their games to the non-striking teams they are to oppose in each of the five endangered contests. Another possibility was a shift in the schedule to pit non-striking teams against each other.

Cancellation loomed over the sold-out Jets-Bills contest. Buffalo owner Ralph C. Wilson — a member of the NFLMC executive committee — said there would be no game at 82,000-seat Rich Stadium Sunday unless the Jets ended their strike.

"It doesn't make sense to confuse the schedule by shifting opponents at the last moment," said Wilson.

There still was a threat that one season could be cancelled. Chargers owner Eugene Klein insisted in San Diego he would "vote to cancel the season" if three or more teams went on strike. He said, however, that the comment was his personal opinion and that further action would have to be taken by the management council.

The three major television networks — who pay $60 million for rights to NFL contests — said they had developed contingency plans for telecasts which involved the threatened games: Detroit at Green Bay, Houston at New England, New Orleans at Washington, the Jets at Buffalo and the Giants at Philadelphia.

CBS Sports Vice President Robert Wussler said: "We're prepared to go with whatever football we can get ... and we've lined up a number of other opportunities, other sports events."

ABC, which plans to show Oakland at Miami Monday night, would show a movie in place of the game if it is cancelled. But both teams involved have taken non-striking positions.

Carl Lindemann, vice president of NBC Sports, said his network assumes there will be games to televise and that if one regionally televised game is cancelled, another will be telecast in its place.

Lions Vote To Join Strike; Forzano Confident Of Game

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions voted Wednesday to strike the National Football League, joining four other clubs which have walked out in a contract dispute.

Despite the strike vote, Coach Bud Forzano remains optimistic, saying confidently, "We will play a game Sunday."

The Lions are scheduled to open their regular season in Milwaukee against the Green Bay Packers. Both teams finished their exhibition seasons with 2-4 records. The Packers had not taken a stand on the strike as of late Wednesday.

"We plan on playing a ball game, and I personally feel we'll play," Forzano said after his team, in what was reported as a near-unanimous vote, chose to walk out.

But despite his optimism,

FORZANO ASKED: "How are they going to beat Green Bay without practice?"

Co-captains Len Barney and Charlie Sanders said they would try to find a place to practice. The players' decision to strike, the National Football League left them without access to the club's Oakland University training facility, without uniforms and equipment, and without coaches.

"We still have the idea of playing football," Barney said. "The game plans have been passed out. If we have a last-minute call Friday or Saturday (on a settlement) we'll be ready."

Jim Yarbrough, team player representative, said, "We hope there'll be a ballgame Sunday. Maybe progress will be made. We want to be prepared, that's for sure."

Chief issue in the strike is the so-called Rozelle Rule, which effectively binds a player to one team.

The Lions were to meet today to discuss practice plans and any new developments in the strike.

After the players' 2 1/2-hour Wednesday strike meeting, Yarbrough said: "We do not accept the six-point proposal offered yesterday by the Management Council. We, as a team, decided as long as the New England Patriots are locked out of their training camp, we consider our team locked out."

"We will re-evaluate our position daily in hope meaningful progress will be made in our union's negotiations for a bargaining agreement."

Yarbrough wouldn't disclose the vote, but indications were that support for the strike was close to unanimous.

Defensive end Ernie Price said almost no one spoke against the strike and, although it was a secret ballot, he believed the vote was "42-to-1" in favor.

Rogers Lebew, assistant general manager who spoke for some 45 minutes at the meeting, said:

"By voting to support the New England players, they have locked themselves out. What else could that be but a wildcat strike?"

"I'm kinda shocked," said Forzano, who earlier refused comment. "I didn't expect it to happen."

"If we thought they'd walk out," he added, "we wouldn't have been here until 2:30 this morning working on a game plan."

Detroit was the fourth team to strike. The New York Giants became the fifth, following the one set by the Patriots, who were joined Tuesday by Washington and the New York Jets.

"We can't sit around to see what the other 20 teams are going to do," said Barney. "We're solid. We're for it. I think everybody is sitting back to see what everyone else is going to do."

Yarbrough, who walked out of camp for about a week in August after deciding to quit football, said: "We want to play football, but we feel it's important that meaningful progress be made in negotiations."

"I've put $1,000 in union dues into this thing and haven't gotten anything out of it," said Price. "You're going to have a union or you're not going to have a union. If we're not going to have one (that accomplishes something), I'm not going to put any more into it."

Loew said he has no idea what the next step will be. Russ Thomas, Lions general manager, was in New York with other NFL executives to discuss the situation.

"My biggest concern is for football," Forzano said. "It's bigger than me. It's bigger than the Detroit Lions. It's bigger than Ed Garvey (player's union chief). It's professional football now that I'm concerned about."

"If I was an athletic director at college today I'd be having parties. This has got to help college football."

Court Ruling Again Trims Grid Squads

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne started counting football players on his fingers as soon as he heard that his traveling squad had once again been cut to 48.

But he sighed with relief when he found that a New Orleans appeals court ruling would not go into effect until next week, and put his hands back in his pockets.

"I started immediately figuring out on my fingers who I wasn't going to take this week to North Carolina ... I'm just glad the rule didn't go back into effect this week," Claiborne said.

On Wednesday, the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans struck down an Alabama judge's ruling that college football traveling squads may have 60 players instead of being limited to 48.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association said to avoid inconvenience to coaches and players, it would give teams one week to implement the rule.

The ruling suspended a temporary injunction granted to Alabama Coach Bear Bryant on Sept. 8 in Tuscaloosa by U.S. District Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr.

The NCAA originally imposed the 48-man limit as an economy measure last August, immediately drawing fire from the nation's coaches. Again, on Wednesday, reaction was marked by dismay and confusion.

"The fact the home team can dress 60 players and the visiting team can only dress 48 is wrong. The home field advantage is big enough without having 12 more men," said Claiborne.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne went as far as pledging his leadership in a move to throw out the NCAA limitation, if the occasion arises. "The whole thing is ridiculous," Osborne said. "And they talk about lowering costs."

"I think there definitely should be an economizing move in college," Osborne said, "but not at the expense of the player, and certainly not when you're spending more than you're saving."

Northwestern Coach Johnny Pont said he thought the responsibility for the ruling, which he opposes, should be shared by the coaches.

"I strongly opposed the limitation at the convention and feel the issue should have been fought more forcefully there," Pont said. "But the NCAA passed the legislation and I think the courts and the NCAA have more important things to do."

Oregon State's Dee Andros added: "I think that it's a shame that they can't make up their minds. It makes it awful tough for a coach to try to prepare a game if they change the rules every week."

In granting the NCAA's request to overturn the Pointer injunction, the appeals court refused to accept the case as one of high importance and thus grant it a quick hearing, which would have cut several months from the normally lengthy court procedure.

What that means is that Bryant's original suit still exists, but since it was not granted top priority, it will not go on the docket until late this year, at the earliest. Thus, the 48-man limit is likely to remain in force throughout the season.

Howe To Play Full Season

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Aeros President Gordie Howe, former Detroit Red Wings star who led the Aeros to two World Hockey Association championships, has announced he will play the full 1975-76 season.

Howe, 47, the former National Hockey League great, said after last season that he would retire after playing in the Aeros first game this season in The Summit, their new home.

"I think it was unfair to ask me at the end of last season if I would retire," Howe said. "I was tired then and wanted to rest. But we put on the sweats a couple of days ago, and the old fires started burning again."

Howe was named president of the Aeros following his announced retirement as a player. Howe said he would leave it to the Aeros' board of directors to decide whether he should remain in the executive job.

"I can stay as president in name only if that's the way they want it," Howe said. "We have plenty of quality people."

Salmon Big Fishing Draw

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Salmon continued to be the top fishing attraction in Michigan this week, with activity centered along Lakes Michigan and Huron, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Salmon runs were beginning to take shape in southeast Michigan with fair catches of coho and chinook coming from the St. Clair and Huron rivers, the club said.

The Great Lakes also are producing good numbers of trout, particularly steelhead and browns. Some rainbow and lake trout were also being taken.

Leins New Coach

SOUTH HAVEN — Craig Leins was appointed new head track coach at South Haven Tuesday night by the school board.

He replaces Ron Den Uyl, who will remain as cross country coach.

Rob Lytle Versatile Backfield Performer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Rob Lytle was converted to fullback, but that doesn't mean he's through at tailback for the University of Michigan's football team.

Tailback Gordon Bell's 210 yards rushing in Michigan's 23-6 Big Ten football victory over Wisconsin last Saturday was impressive. But it wasn't influenced Coach Bo Schembechler to the point where he won't use Lytle at the position again.

"I don't want him in there that much," Schembechler said of Bell, a 5-foot-9, 178-pound senior. "I don't think he tires that much, but 28 carries in the same game by a back is too much."

And Bell, who has a good shot at passing Ron Johnson's 2,440 career yards for second on the all-time Michigan rushing list, admitted:

"You really get tired out there in the second half."

He was in the lineup for all but two plays.

Schembechler intends to put junior Lytle at tailback occasionally with sophomore Scott Corbin at fullback, particularly in situations where short yardage is needed.

Lytle, 6-1, 190, is fast but also runs with power. Bell has more finesse, can cut on a dime and sidestep through the smallest holes.

Michigan, which opens its home season Saturday against Stanford, hasn't had a big, power-driving fullback since 1973 when Ed Shuttlesworth and Bob Thornbladh played.

Last year Chuck Heater, a tailback for two seasons, was moved to fullback to add speed.

Against Wisconsin, Lytle pounded out 91 yards in 15 carries for a 6.1 average. Bell's average in 28 carries was 7.5.

The Wolverines had to settle for field goals by Bob Wood on three occasions against Wisconsin because they couldn't get key first downs in Badger territory.

"We'll work on that," Schembechler said. "Our short yardage and goal line offense is not physical enough yet."

Up front, there are other problems. Tackle Steve King, named by coaches as the top offensive player of Saturday's victory over Wisconsin, has been lost for up to four games because of a knee injury.

The standout Wolverine senior from Tiffin, Ohio, will miss Saturday's game and perhaps three more, said Schembechler.

King injured the knee against the Badgers and aggravated it in practice Wednesday. He had surgery last year.

King's spot will be taken by sophomore Mike Kenn, a 6-foot-6, 245-pound sophomore from Evanston, Ill. That will give the Wolverines an all-sophomore offensive line with the exception of center Jim O'Neil, a senior from St. Joseph, Mo.

Also out with a knee injury suffered against Wisconsin will be split end Rick White of Cincinnati. Keith Johnson of Munster, Ind., formerly a split end but recently moved to defensive back, will take White's place.

Sophomore guard Greg Bartnick also may be lost for most of the season due to a knee injury suffered in practice about a week ago.

Old Friends Bergan, Burnell Clash At New Buffalo Watervliet Begins Defense Of Red Arrow Title

Watervliet will be out to defend its title and a former pupil will play his teacher as the Red Arrow conference kicks off its 10th season of play with three games on Friday night and one set for Saturday evening.

On Friday, the Panthers, winners of four of the previous nine titles, hosts Bridgman while Eau Claire travels to New Buffalo and Berrien Springs is at Hartford. Lake Michigan Catholic opens play on Saturday against Galien at Dickinson Stadium.

"We moved the ball well but couldn't get it into the end zone," commented Panther head coach Jerry Barlett about his team's 13-6 loss to highly-rated North Muskegon. "We're going to work on our total game this week, shoring up our defense and sharpening the offense."

One man he won't have to worry about sharpening up is Frank Gargano, a senior running back who gained 211 yards. "I was pleased with the way all our backs ran with the ball," he said.

Watervliet will run into a similar problem it had last week trying to stop a speedy running back. Bridgman's Mike Schaller scored three touchdowns as the Bees routed Michigan Lutheran 28-0 and Barchett indicated his speed was a major concern. "They also have a fine quarterback in Tom Meredith who can throw and execute well," he added.

Jerry Planutis cited his experienced backfield as one of the Bees' strong points but he also indicated his line may have to shore up their blocking. "We've got a good backfield but they can't run if the line doesn't block," he commented. Two old friends will meet when Eau Claire travels to New Buffalo. The Bisons' Max Burnell got Eau Claire's Paul Bergan started in coaching back in Dallas, Texas. Both stayed at Bishop Lynch's high for three years then Burnell took the head job at East Moline United Township high and Bergan came along as an assistant. That lasted another three years until Bergan moved to the head job at Eau Claire.

"We both run about the same thing," mused Bergan. "But Max always has something to fire his kids up."

The Beavers were the team that was fired up last week as they trounced Bloomingdale 22-8 with Don McAfee gaining 240 yards and scoring 20 points. "I was real pleased with our aggressiveness and team quickness," Bergan said. "They were really hitting out there." Burnell was very happy with his defense in New Buffalo's 12-7 loss to River Valley. "They hustled and did better against the pass which is pretty good seeing they've only worked on pass defense for two days."

The Lakers head coach, Terry Rose, feels Lake Michigan Catholic, who tied for seventh in the class C poll, still has a lot of work to do. "We weren't coming off the ball," he said. "We were sitting back and waiting for them to commit."

"I was pleased with our second half performance," Rose added. "The line and linebackers played well and we were coming off the ball better."

Galien's first year coach Jerry Hess feels his team also made a lot of mistakes. "To quote Dan Devine, it wasn't artistic, but it was a win," he said. "Our techniques weren't as good as they should be but the team played with enthusiasm and pride," he added.

Hartford will be hard pressed to keep its four game winning streak going as three starters are injured and won't see action this week against Berrien Springs. Among the wounded are offensive end Mark Wallace (concussion), running back Phil Mureles (15 stitches in his nose) and linebacker Dave Gailhouse (knee). "But for the first time, we think we have the depth to replace these people," head coach Bob Teske added. "We're going to find out Friday."

Al Bush just hopes his Shamrocks get a little better field position and the ball more often. "We started inside the 10-yard line twice and only had the ball for 30 offensive plays last week," he indicated.

Jones Must Regroup BH For Muskegon On Friday

Benton Harbor football coach Eugene Jones was still in a state of shock Wednesday.

His Tigers had fumbled up 343 yards in total offense Friday against Kalamazoo Central but incredibly had lost 33-8.

Now Jones must regroup his charges for their next assignment. Benton Harbor hosts Muskegon at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Filstrup Field.

"We don't plan to do anything different against Muskegon," Jones says. "We just have to score when we get in scoring position. You can't give the ball away five times against a good team and expect to win. We just can't have the big turnover like we did against Kalamazoo."

"You pick up the paper and look at the won-loss ledger and the score. But actually take away the mistakes and we played a pretty good ballgame Friday."

Jones is not the only coach who wasn't exactly pleased with his team's effort Friday. Muskegon coach Larry Harp was less than happy about the Big Reds' 14-0 loss to Grand Rapids-East Kentwood.

"We just couldn't move the football," Harp said. "Our runners didn't run. Our blockers didn't block. And our passers didn't pass."

"Our defense was very poor. We've changed a lot of personnel. We're in the experimental stage on defense and if the new players work out they'll probably start against Benton Harbor."

tercepted a pass, are the only two defensive players from last Friday who are assured of starting berths against the Tigers.

Jones has also made some personnel changes for Friday. Eight changes have been made on defense alone. Bennie Bowers and Ken Pratcher are being moved to the defensive slots. Bowers is shifting from offensive split end and Pratcher is coming over from his cornerback position.

Bernard Billups is switching from offensive tackle to defensive tackle. Keith Taylor and Tom Jones are moving in to the inside linebacker slots. The team's quarterback, Mike Schultz, is also moving in as one of the cornerbacks, while Harold House is switching from linebacker to the other cornerback.

Either Willie Nichols or Fred Woods will play middle guard.

On offense, Scott Randolph is moving from fullback to tailback with Jerry McClinton coming over from guard to fullback.

"We believe by making those two changes on offense it will help us in two areas," Jones says. "It will give us the speed we need in the backfield to get outside and help the blocking in the backfield."

Tyrone Bradley is taking McClinton's guard slot.

Schultz' performance against Kalamazoo was the second best of his career. He completed 11 of 21 for 173 yards. Only against Traverse City last year has he been better, completing 18 of 30 for 183 yards.

Mississippi State Coach Optimistic Despite Penalties

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Coach Bob Tyler predicts the Mississippi State football program will flourish despite severe penalties for recruiting violations which he blamed on ignorance.

Tyler gave his optimistic forecast after the NCAA announced Wednesday it had imposed a two-year probation and other penalties for recruiting infractions.

He said State would accept the findings but would appeal eligibility restrictions imposed on two players. Tyler said the findings would not be appealed because he knew of no case where an appeal had helped a school.

"I think it is a stiff penalty," he said. "But it is not one that we can't weather. I'm very glad that the big, serious-sounding allegations were ... all found by the NCAA to be unfounded and untrue."

The probation means State cannot participate in bowl games or NCAA-sponsored television games this year or next year.

The NCAA also ruled sophomore defensive tackle Larry Gillard ineligible for an unspecified period and declared Gillard and sophomore defensive back Richard Blackmore ineligible for postseason play.

State was also ordered to cut its football scholarships by five this fall, to admonish three assistant coaches, and to sever athletic connections with three alumni who were not publicly named.

Tyler said the NCAA findings involved:

Tyler claimed Gillard did not know he was buying the clothes at a discount.

Gillard, Blackmore and two other players receiving a legal $10 expense allowance for visiting prospects, but getting it directly from coaches, which is prohibited. The other two prospects did not sign with State.

Offers of assistance and payments, which Tyler estimated at under $25 each, from supporters to prospective athletes who eventually went elsewhere. Tyler said the supporters were "not necessarily alumni."

And three alumni who gave improper aid to prospective athletes: One who sold the clothes to Gillard, one who provided transportation to the campus for a prospective athlete and another who provided meals to three prospects.

Yanks Overwhelming Picks To Win Golf's Ryder Cup

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — America's Ryder Cup team, a 12-man squad that may be the strongest ever assembled, is an overwhelming choice to continue its domination in the biennial Ryder Cup golf matches against the best of Great Britain and Ireland this weekend.

"We shouldn't lose a point, but obviously we will," said Hale Irwin. "We're gonna beat those British like they've never been beat before," said Lee Trevino. And it's just that attitude that has planted a tiny seed of concern in the mind of American non-playing captain Arnold Palmer.

"For over-all strength and depth this is probably the best team I've ever seen," said Palmer, whose Ryder Cup association goes back to 1961. "I know how good they are, and you know how good they are. The only concern I have is if they start thinking about how good they are."

Their team is composed of

The Friday and Saturday schedule is composed of four Scotch foursomes and four bestball matches each day. Sunday's play is devoted to 18 singles matches. A team is awarded one point for a win, one-half point for a match that is halved.

ABC-TV will provide national television coverage of Saturday and Sunday play.

Orioles Running Out Of Time In AL East

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Father time, the newest member of the Boston Red Sox lineup, keeps moving up in the batting order.

He turned a 1-1 split in the important Boston-Baltimore series into the Red Sox' gain and the Orioles' loss. And he seems to now have overtaken the Red Sox as the Orioles' real opponent.

"We sent them out of here the way they came in but now they have less time to try to make up," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson after the Orioles beat the Red Sox 5-2 in the regular season finale between the two American League East powers.

Baltimore's victory pulled the Orioles to within 4½ games of the Red Sox, the same position they were in before they landed in Boston. The Red Sox have 10 games left; the Orioles 11.

Boston's magic number remained at seven. Any combination of Boston victories and Baltimore losses totaling seven will give the Red Sox the division title.

"It's gonna be hard," said Baltimore's Mike Torrez, who gained his 19th victory with eighth-inning relief help. "We know we have to win every game."

Tommy Davis contributed a home run and two singles while Brooks Robinson pitched in with three singles in the Orioles' 13-hit attack.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees edged the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5 in 11 innings; the Minnesota Twins nipped the Kansas City Royals 2-1; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Oakland Raiders 3-2; the California Angels downed the Texas Rangers 3-2, and the Detroit Tigers blanked the Cleveland Indians 4-0.

Kansas City is another team which seems to be running an inevitable losing race with time. The Royals lost to the Twins on Dave Goltz' seven-hitter and are eight games behind Oakland in the AL West with 11 games left.

"We haven't quit yet," said Kansas City Manager White Herzog. "But the reality is we lost our pennant chance when we lost three straight to Oakland and now we're all but mathematically eliminated."

Wilbur Wood slowed Oakland's drive toward another divisional title; Wood, who gave up three hits including Claudell Washington's ninth-inning single, gave way to reliever Dave Hamilton.

Sal Bando then walked, and was erased in a double play before Gene Tenace smacked his 27th homer of the year for the final margin.

The A's magic number for winning their fifth straight American League West title remained at five. Any combination of A's victories and Kansas City losses totaling five will give Oakland the division flag.

David Clyde, making his first major league start of the season, threw Jerry Remy's first home run in the 11th inning.

When Sparky Lyle had no margin of error, he was perfect. When he had four runs to work with, he gave up three, but the Yankees still held off Milwaukee in 11 innings.

Lyle threw one pitch to fiery Aaron with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th and it turned into an inning-ending double play.

In the 11th his teammates scored four runs for him, two on Thurman Munson's single. And it was just enough to weather Milwaukee's uprising in the 11th.

Detroit right-hander Joe Coleman scattered seven hits to record his first shutout of the season.

Combat Boots Aid Star Ricky Bell

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Why would a man don Army combat boots and ankle weights and then run through the sand?

Ricky Bell felt it might help him at tailback, his third position at the University of Southern California, so he tried the combat boots routine over the summer.

And in his first attempt as a tailback, last Friday night against Duke, Bell ran for 256 yards on 34 carries and scored four touchdowns. Blocked for ferociously by teammates Most Tatupu and Dave Farmer, he helped USC beat the Blue Devils 35-7.

The effort earned Bell honors as the first Associated Press Back of the Week for 1975.

"The biggest thing about tailback is your quickness off the line," said Bell, a junior. "All summer I put on those combat boots and went to the beach to run. I don't know how much it helped my speed, but it sure helped me mentally."

Bell, a linebacker as a freshman and fullback last year, took over a spot held decently by guys named Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson, Clarence Davis and Anthony Davis. He switched because he was the fastest ball carrier in the Trojan camp, despite his 6-foot-2, 215-pound frame. He runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

USC's blocking was awesome and Bell said, "I don't think they'll be able to stop me this year because our blocking is so good. Oh, they may be able to slow me down, but not stop me."

Farmer, Tatupu and tackle Marvin Powell led the way and Ricky had 141 yards at halftime. His first touchdown run, eight yards, followed a crunching block by Farmer. His second, six yards, was behind Tatupu's flattening of a Duke linebacker.

"Near the end I knew I was close to the record so the coaches put me back in. But they didn't want me running any power plays for fear of getting hurt, so we called trap plays to fool the defense — so I could maybe get some cheap yards. I got 38 yards on four carries."

After his last run of six yards he had the school single-game record, previously held by O.R. Roberts at 251 yards.

NEW YORK (AP) — Introducing the Oakland Raiders, the perennial bridesmaids who this season will finally make it to the Super Bowl, so help them Al Davis.

Davis is the front-office boss of the Raiders and considered one of pro football's shrewdest executives. He has molded his team into one of the game's most impressive units and, after years of frustrating failure, the moves should finally pay off this time around.

The Raiders played in Super Bowl II and they're overdue for a return trip to the championship game. With a cast headed by quarterback Ken Stabler on offense and a strengthened defense, Oakland should make it.

The trip won't be easy. To get to the title game, the Raiders will have to fight off injuries and defection, still should have enough to win the East over the Joe Namath-led New York Jets.

If everything goes the way it ought to, this is how the American Football Conference standings should look when the regular season ends ... assuming, of course, there is a strike settlement and the regular season is played.

Stabler has some of the National Football League's most potent offensive weapons to work with on Oakland's offense.

His running backs include tough Marv Hubbard and elusive Clarence Davis. He has two of the NFL's best wide receivers in Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch, and any time he can't take the Raiders into the end zone for six points, there's always old reliable field goal kicker George Blanda available for three.

On defense, Davis added one of the league's very best linebackers when he signed free agent Ted Hendricks. The draft yielded a blue chip defensive back in Neal Coble of Ohio State. They'll fit right into a cast that includes Otis Sistrunk, Art Thoms, Phil Villipiano.

Now that the Steelers own Super Bowl rings, the incentive won't be the same. And that should be Coach Chuck Noll's biggest problem.

Terry Bradshaw is the signalcaller fulltime now. And Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier give the Steelers a tough pair of runners.

Mean Joe Greene heads the awesome defense that is capable of winning games all by itself. The defensive line of Greene, Ernie Holmes, L.C. Greenwood and Dwight White is positively frightening.

But Pittsburgh will find that will find that winning the conference title the second time will be tougher than it was the first time.

Miami Coach Don Shula had to reconstruct an offense when running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Killek and wide receiver Paul Warfield took the World Football League money and moved off to Memphis.

Then he had to reconstruct a defense when injuries robbed him of All-Pro defensive back Dick Anderson and middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti.

It wasn't easy, but Shula appears to have applied enough patches to keep the Dolphins on top in the AFC East.

Don Nottingham is no Csonka and Nat Moore is no Warfield. Charlie Babb is no Anderson and Mike Kolen is no Buoniconti.

But the replacements are good enough, and some of the first rate pieces like quarterback Bob Griese, guard Larry Little, defensive back Jake Scott and others are still intact.

Oakland and Pittsburgh should win their divisions comfortably. Miami, however, might have a battle on its hands.

Behind the Raiders, Denver appears to be second best in the West with running backs Otis Armstrong and Jon Keyworth, quarterback Charlie Johnson and receivers Haven Moses and Riley Odoms providing a diversified attack.

Cincinnati should give the Steelers a run for the Central crown for awhile, with the aerial magic of Ken Anderson and the running of Boobie Clark.

The Jets have a healthy Namath, at least for the moment, and that has to make them a factor in the East. John Riggins and Emerson Boazerg give Joe Willie good inside and outside running to go with his passing attack to receivers like Rich Gaster and Jerome Barkum.

Elsewhere in the East, Buffalo has one of pro football's all-time greatest rushers in O.J. Simpson, but the Bills suffered a major blow when wide receiver Ahmad Rashad was sidelined for the season by injury. The Injury hex also hit New England's Jim Plunkett and the Pats may wish the strike would last all season unless their quarterback makes a rapid recovery. Baltimore's rebuilding may begin to make progress under new Coach Ted Marchibroda.

Houston and Cleveland both have new coaches in the Central Division and it looks like a long season for both Bum Phillips of the Oilers and Forrest Gregg with the Browns. In the West, Paul Wiggin takes over as coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, who seem strong enough to beat out San Diego in the third-place race there.

NASA To Test Energy-Maker

Giant Windmills 'Look Encouraging'

By ROBERT L. SHAFFER
Associated Press Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Engineers from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are assembling a giant, experimental windmill after indications it may be a practical, supplemental energy source.

Ronald L. Thomas, head of the wind power office at NASA's Lewis Research Center here, said preliminary results of studies conducted by two contractors "look very encouraging." It appears that windmills have the potential to be a practical source of energy.

If the machines being developed by Lewis Center put out, you may see huge, twin-bladed windmills with vanes spanning 190 feet going up in many parts of the country within a few years.

Thomas said the studies being done by General Electric Co.'s space division at Valley Forge, Pa., and Kaman Aerospace Corp. at Bloomfield, Conn., indicate that energy costs will run "from like 7 cents a kilowatt hour to 2 cents a kilowatt hour for sites with average winds of 12 to 18 miles per hour."

That isn't cheap, Thomas acknowledged, "but in some places it's going to look good."

The Edison Electric Institute in New York says the average kilowatt hour cost from conventional power sources in fiscal 1975 was 3.05 cents nationwide, but says costs vary widely from region to region.

In the windmill experiment, the 2 cent figure at 18 m.p.h. sites looks good, Thomas said, "but unfortunately there aren't very many of them." He said there are a lot more sites where winds average 12 m.p.h.

Thomas noted that the studies are based on building wind turbines in quantities of 100 to 1,000 and using presently available technology.

Improved technology and quantity production could lower costs for the 500 kilowatt and 1,500 kilowatt machines considered in the two studies.

The wind turbine which Thomas and his aides are assembling at the NASA Plum Brook station near Sandusky will have vanes spanning 125 feet on a 100-foot tower. The turbine is to be in operation by October, and then the technologists will start work on a storage system.

Storage is crucial since winds are pretty fickle in most areas.

Thomas said the first storage systems to be studied in connection with the 500 kilowatt wind turbine at Plum Brook will be batteries and a thermal storage system.

Thermal systems, uncommon in this country, are used in England, he said.

Thomas gave this description of the workings of a thermal storage system:

Electrical energy converted to heat melts a substance such as a eutectic salt. To retrieve the energy, water is piped through the melted substance, which freezes as the heat is taken out.

The Plum Brook windmill is not the first big windmill to be put up in the United States. A huge windmill was installed on Grandpa's Knob near Rutland, Vt., in 1941 and operated briefly, putting 1,250 kilowatts into utility power lines.

The Grandpa's Knob windmill was shut after a propeller blade cracked, but Thomas doesn't expect any problems developing equipment that will withstand the elements.

He noted that engineers have had considerable experience with helicopter rotors and "we have a lot more analysis capability today."

"I'm looking for these machines to operate for 20 to 30

Why two-bladed props? "We found that three blades would give a little more energy, but the larger cost doesn't give that much more energy in relation to the increased cost. A lot of your cost is tied up in those blades."

The big blades, each 82½ feet long, are being made of aluminum by Lockheed-California. They weigh about one ton each. Two blades are at least twice as efficient as the "old farm style windmills with a lot of blades," Thomas said, "but they don't have that high starting torque."

"Don't forget, that farm windmill was connected directly to the handle of a pump. It takes a lot of force to start that pump."

The NASA researcher said several utility companies are watching his project, which was undertaken at the request of the National Science Foundation.

Plans are already under way to build several 500-kilowatt turbines "and one or two of the big machines — 1,500 kilowatts."

Miners Lobby For Lung Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of coal miners are trying to talk Congress into making it easier for victims of black lung disease to receive benefit checks.

The miners, many of them afflicted with the chronic respiratory disease, are lobbying for a bill by Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., that would make any 15-year veteran of an underground mine automatically eligible for the benefits.

AN OLD IDEA: Giant windmill, sporting 125-foot blades on a 100-foot tower, is part of experiment to determine if windmills have potential to be a practical source of energy. Windmill was put into operation by engineers at National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio. (AP Wirephoto)

Expansion Of Grocery Store Leads List Of Projects In BH

The Village Variety grocery store, 238 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, will be expanded into the adjacent former Olds dairy store, the city building inspection department reported.

The department issued a permit to Joel Patterson to install a 14-foot interior opening between the stores, for an estimated $2,500.

The permit was among seven issued during the past week for varied projects totaling $9,305.

Permits were issued to Sears Roebuck & Co., Benton Harbor, for residing a single-family dwelling owned by Kemp Goodloe, 141 North Seely street, $3,805; Voyd Thomas, to repair fire damage at a two-family dwelling he owns at 369 Clay street, $1,500; and to reroof a garage at the Fred Moore residence, 733 Colfax avenue, $350.

Robert Lerke, for roofing work on a dwelling he owns at 944 Monroe street, $500; Herschel Hale, for roofing work on a dwelling he owns at 831 LaSalle avenue, $450; and Leonard Little, for roofing work on a dwelling, owned by Roy Garrick, 761 McAlister avenue, $200.

Take Your Camera On Fall Color Tours

Use your camera to capture the beauty of Michigan's fall color season to savor after the leaves have fallen and are covered by winter's snow, suggests Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan's rugged Great Lakes shoreline, jewel-like inland lakes, gently rolling countryside and quaint little villages provide a scenic background for the vivid hues of Michigan's woods in autumn color.

"Try to include some action or activity when shooting to get the more natural look," he says. "For instance, when photographing Michigan's colorful autumn scenes, make sure you include a child or animal in your picture."

"Or, to get a farm atmosphere, photograph a farmhouse or a cornfield with trees in the background."

many ghost towns and abandoned mines that can be found in the Keweenaw peninsula.

Color tours in the Leelanau peninsula and Traverse City area include scenic lighthouses — at Northport and on the Old Mission peninsula. A fish hatchery and Christmas tree farms are some of the attractions in the Cadillac area, while the Lake Shore Scenic drive will provide awesome views of woods and water between Petoskey and Mackinaw City.

The Isabella Indian reservation and Central Michigan university are featured on a tour of the Midland-Mount Pleasant area, and quaint covered bridges near Strynna and Ada are part of the Ionia-area tour.

Other color tours in southeastern Lower Michigan include cider mills, "pick-them-yourself" apple orchards, antiques and nature centers.

The state's freeways and major highways are ideal corridors for getting to the scenes of Michigan's fall color, but take to the byways to really enjoy the splendor of forests ablaze in autumn, Auto Club advises.

Camera buffs can obtain color tour information from area tourist bureaus or chambers of commerce, and Auto Club members will find up-to-date reports available at local offices across the state.

Because of last month's record rainfall, the fall color season will arrive in Michigan at least a week earlier than last year. Tourism officials in the Upper Peninsula estimate color will be at its peak there starting Sept. 20 and ending Oct. 2.

The color will spread to northern Lower Michigan Sept. 27 through Oct. 8; central Lower Michigan, Oct. 4-18, and southern Lower Michigan, Oct. 11-23.

Red maples, dogwoods, and ash are among the first trees to change color. The red or swamp maple leaves turn a brilliant red while dogwoods are a rich scarlet and ashes have a coloring all their own — a blend of yellow and purple.

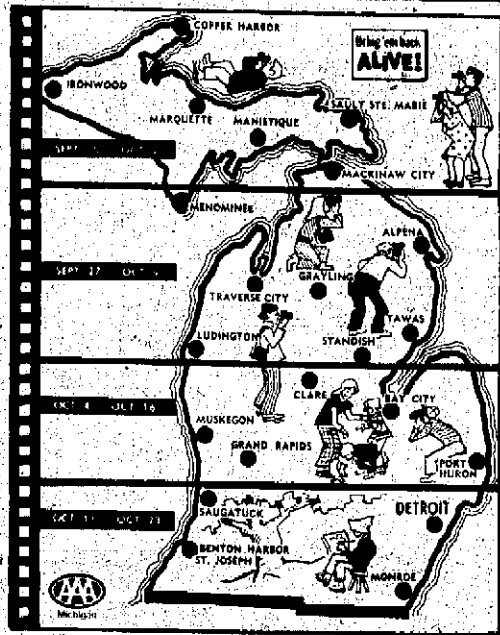

Hickories, redbud, birch and popular turn a golden yellow early in fall, while Hawthornes, many crabs, sweet gum, cherries, oaks and mountain ash become red or red-orange. A few, such as sugar maple and sassafras, display a blend of red, orange and yellow all on the same leaf.

The fall color season has become the "third season" for Michigan tourism — the second largest industry in the state, Auto Club notes.

Tourism is at an all-time high in Michigan, and this fall, Auto Club adds.

The fall season alone represents 20 percent of the total tourist year in dollar expenditures, so this means tourists will spend $440 million in Michigan this fall season.

FALL COLOR SCHEDULE FOR 1975

Last Malpractice Suit Settled Vs. Closed Hospital

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — One of Michigan's most grisly medical malpractice cases has ended with settlement of the last of some 50 suits stemming from scandals at the defunct Fairwood Hospital in Warren.

Although judgments in the cases totaled more than $3 million, the last two cases, settled this week in Macomb County Circuit Court, amounted to just $18,500.

Albert Lopatin, whose firm handled many of the cases, said about 20 other cases were settled in the past month for small cash amounts.

"There was only a limited amount of coverage (insurance money) left, and we wanted to be sure everyone got something," he said.

Fairwood was shut down in 1966 after several law enforcement agencies investigating the facility found 13 doctors and nurses were practicing

Beliefs May

Cost Her Job

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Chirita Michaud is standing by her religious convictions against joining a labor union even though she faces dismissal for her beliefs.

Mrs. Michaud, a Seventh Day Adventist, has been threatened with the loss of the clerical job she's held the past five years at the Oxford Paper Co. plant in Rumford, Maine. Her church discourages its members from joining or financially supporting labor organizations without licenses.

Subsequent suits filed against the hospital charged persons were subjected to hundreds of unnecessary operations in 1963 and 1966. The founder of the hospital, Dr. Sanford Stone, estimated 70,000 patients were treated during those two years.

Stone died of a heart attack in 1969, two years after he pleaded guilty to charges of unprofessional conduct and was placed on probation.

Lopatin said the full extent of problems at the hospital may never be uncovered because most records from the facility were missing.

Among the more sensational suits filed was that of an 11-year-old girl who went to the hospital complaining of a stomach ache in April 1966 and had an ovary, Fallopian tube and appendix removed.

The girl, now a 20-year-old student, agreed earlier this year to a $50,000 compromise settlement. Attorneys argued that Dr. Stone incorrectly diagnosed her illness and none of her organs needed to be removed.

Another case resulted in a $128,000 out-of-court settlement for the family of a Hazel Park woman who died after having 11 operations in a nine-month period. And the widow of a Utica man was awarded $230,524 after the man died following gall bladder surgery.

Attorneys in both cases contended the operations were unnecessary.

SKILL CENTER NEARS COMPLETION: Construction of Van Buren intermediate school district's $3.5 million skill center in Lawrence is expected to be completed by Nov. 1, according to Jerry Lutz, director of center's student services. When completed, center will be able to house 1,200 students daily on two-shift basis for all 11 school districts in county. Lutz said center will open for students in late January, 1976, starting with second semester. Construction is being financed by federal funds and three-mill property tax levy approved by voters in 1972. General contractor is Dosca and Smith associates of Kalamazoo. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

Trooper's Double Life Has Big Payoff

DETROIT (AP) — State Police Sgt. Tom Kent's ability to lead a double life has resulted in one of the largest drug busts in Michigan history.

For five months, troopers said, Kent spent his days playing the dangerous game of drug dealer, infiltrating the Detroit drug trade as a middle-class dealer known only as Tom.

At night he would return home to his wife and children. Kent's undercover work paid off Monday.

In broad daylight in a crowded K-Mart parking lot, Kent, 34, handed a briefcase containing $32,000 to a man in return for 4 pounds, 2 ounces of high-grade brown Mexican heroin. Despite the size of the seizure, police said it was but a two-day supply for Detroit junkies.

The dope had a reported street value of $4.2 million, State Police said, although other agencies indicated that figure might be a bit high.

After the transfer, a dozen other undercover cops moved in and arrested the man with Kent and two other men waiting in separate cars in the parking lot.

"There were lots of times when we thought it wasn't going to work. It often got very discouraging," Kent said Tuesday. "But when it went down in the parking lot Monday what I felt was jubilation."

Kent did not talk much about his work as a drug dealer with his wife or 10-year-old son when he went home at night. "My son is too young to understand any of this," he said. "And my wife, well, it was better she didn't know too much."

Kent, who describes himself as "no hero" said the assignment was "no more dangerous than anything else I've done in my career."

But he called it "the most satisfying thing I've ever done."

State Police said the seized heroin had a street value of $4.2 million, although other police authorities cited a lower value.

Norman Humphrey, 50, of Detroit, was arraigned Tuesday in Farmington District Court on a charge of delivery of heroin. Also arraigned on charges of delivery of heroin were Edward Milner, 57, and Winston Kuykendall, 31, both of Detroit.

Lt. Robert Kibby said while larger amounts of heroin have been seized, the amount in Monday's bust was the largest ever confiscated in a Michigan undercover operation.

"He's hurt some real big people," Kibby said of Kent's work, adding the 11-year veteran will return to regular duty.

"He's too hot now to put him back on the street."

Eloise Turns On Cuba After Killing 28 People

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hurricane Eloise weakened slightly and lashed eastern Cuba early today, leaving in its wake at least 28 dead and extensive flooding in Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. Eloise's top winds dropped from 80 to 75 miles per hour, which is minimum strength for a hurricane. The storm was expected to move westward over Cuba, and the National Hurricane Center in Miami said this movement over land should prevent its picking up strength again for the time being.

The Miami center said it still could not predict whether Eloise might hit the United States. But Red Cross and Civil Defense officials in Florida made preparations for emergency action and put volunteer helpers on preliminary alert as a precautionary measure. "It would be foolish for South Floridians to make extended plans at this point," said Dr. Neil Frank, the director of the hurricane center.

The hurricane's center early today was reported just off the extreme eastern tip of Cuba, or about 550 miles southeast of Miami. Gales extended 125 miles to the north and 50 miles to the south. The center said Eloise was moving westward at about 11 m.p.h.

Havana Radio said a

"hurricane emergency" had been ordered for Oriente, Cuba's easternmost province, and a "state of alert" was being maintained in Camaguey, the next province in the path of the storm.

Heavy rains and strong winds were reported in many parts of Oriente. Cubana de Aviacion suspended all flights to the eastern province.

Eloise hit Puerto Rico on Tuesday and on Wednesday moved along the northern coast of the Dominican Republic and Haiti, which share the island of Hispaniola. Officials said 22 persons were killed and 275 were injured in Puerto Rico, and at least six more were drowned in the Dominican Republic.

There were no casualty reports yet from Haiti. A total of 5,340 Puerto Ricans were driven from their homes by floods, officials said.

Heavy rains over the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico were expected to taper off today.

The governor of Puerto Rico, Rafael Hernandez Colon, surveyed the ravaged areas of his island by helicopter. He said he would get a complete report on damage and victims before asking the federal government for reconstruction funds. Civil defense officials made an initial damage estimate of $40 million.

Antonio Robadilla, civil defense administrator in the Dominican Republic, said most flooding there was in low areas in the south. But the storm had one beneficial effect — its rains filled rivers that had been dry since drought hit the north coast eight months ago.

Dominican officials said about 1,400 persons were evacuated from their homes.

SATISFACTORY: Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., tells a Washington press conference Wednesday that the Ford administration and members of Congress have reached a "satisfactory agreement" allowing the sale of 14 Hawk anti-aircraft missile batteries to Jordan.

CROWNED: Pat Mullica of Williamstown, N.J., crowns her successor Maureen Sikorsky, (right), of Atlantic City, N.J., as "Miss Italian America" at the New Jersey State Fair in Trenton Tuesday night. In 1973, Miss Sikorsky was chosen as "Miss Polish America" at the same fair. (AP Wirephoto)

Italian Flagships

To Become Hospitals

GENOA, Italy (AP) — A German businessman announced the purchase Wednesday of the Michelangelo and the Raffaello, twin flagships of Italy's once mighty cruise liner fleet, and said he will turn them into floating hospitals.

J.W. Guettner said he heads a Vaduz, Liechtenstein, firm known as IG Tronado, which bought the ships from Italia Navigazioni of Genoa for $12 million each.

The state-owned Italia, which had used the ships for cruises between Italy and the United States until early this summer when they were drydocked because of financial losses,

Black Students Are Back In Town They Had To Flee

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Keith Mitchell is back. So is Thomas Jefferson.

Last Memorial Day weekend, along with 11 other blacks, they had fled town with a white mob at their heels.

"I was a little afraid to come back at first, but I feel I am safe in Taft," says Jefferson, 22.

But he adds: "When you walk down the street, you can see they hate you and they don't know anything about you. Taft is a very nice place, but it has its racism and a handful of trouble-makers that do as they please."

Four of the 13 students run out of the town returned to Taft Junior College when it opened for the fall term three weeks ago. All are athletes recruited by the school.

Three enrolled in other colleges. The rest graduated — they were absent from the ceremonies — last June. Seven other blacks have enrolled. The 11 are the only blacks in town.

"We are doing business as usual, and we have no problems," says Ray Mathai, dean of students. The college president, Wendell Reeder, adds: "The general feeling of all those involved is get off it and let it die."

The 400-student college has added some security measures. A full-time residence hall supervisor has been employed. Most of the blacks live in the dorm. And the blacks walk in pairs at night.

Taft, population 18,500, is 40 miles east of Bakersfield, in the hot, dry southern San Joaquin Valley near the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve. Many of its residents originally came from the South, and most of the young men are oil workers.

Police Chief Walter McKee says the trouble last May began when "the young bucks got liquored up and persuaded themselves that one of the black kids had knocked up a white girl."

After a disturbance, in which one man was wounded by a shotgun blast and another was beaten, police took the 13 blacks into "protective" custody and escorted them to Bakersfield.

Why did the four blacks return?

"I wanted to play basketball this season, and on this team I can start whereas on another team I would have to wait but a year," said Jefferson, who with Mitchell was one of the only two available for comment.

"I wanted to finish my education," Mitchell said. "The incident is over, and I want to leave it that way and concentrate on my education and football."

A committee known as the Concerned Citizens of Taft, formed to counteract racial prejudice, disbanded earlier this month.

"Businessmen make it clear they feared for their economic existence if they joined us, the civic clubs have ignored us, even the ministers of the churches have failed to get involved," said one of its leaders, who asked that his name not be used.

"We could have stayed in existence and forced some of the issues, but let's face it, no one was interested, there was a real lack of interest."

Bavarian Dancers In Preview

The Alpenrose Schuhplattler Verein Bavarian dancers of St. Joseph will present an Oktoberfest preview Friday night in the Jewel Food store parking lot, 756 East Napier avenue, Benton township.

The group will demonstrate its dancing skill from 7-9 p.m. The same dancers will take part in the Oktoberfest celebration planned by the German-American National Congress (DANK) Sept. 27, Oct. 4 and Oct. 11 at the DANK clubhouse, 3851 Pipestone road, Sodus township.

Tickets for the Oktoberfest and traditional bratwurst sandwiches will be on sale during the dance demonstration.

Chavez Union Gets Tactical Victory

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's farm labor board gave a victory to Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Wednesday by turning down a Teamsters request to put 156 growers under a single election unit. The five-member state Agricultural Labor Relations Board called the multiemployer unit "inappropriate."

The Associated Press tally in farm worker elections so far gives the UFW 31 wins covering 5,300 workers and the Teamsters 17 wins covering 4,400 workers.

Fall Colors Starting 'Up North'

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — The brightly colored leaves of autumn are beginning to appear in Michigan forests north of a line from Frankfort to Harrisville, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

A survey of northern Michigan showed color development between 5 and 25 per cent, while peak color was not expected for at least another week.

Death Estimate Figures Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has revised its figures on the consequences of a "limited" Soviet nuclear attack on the United States, saying now that as many as 21.7 million Americans could die.

The report notes, however, that the number of weapons required for such an attack "exceeds current U.S. intelligence projections of Soviet capabilities in the 1980s."

NEWS OF MARKETS

Bargain Hunting Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved ahead today in a continuation of the bargain hunting that began to appear in Wednesday's session. The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up a fraction, and gainers led losers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Analysts viewed the buying as mainly the result of internal market forces rather than any stimulus in the economic news. The Dow had dropped nearly 45 points over six trading days before the market leveled off Wednesday, and brokers noted it was natural for buying to set in after such a marked decline. Today's early prices included Cities Service, up 1/4 at 43 1/2; Joy Manufacturing, unchanged at 74 1/2; Sperry Rand, ahead 1/4 at 36 1/2; and Skyline, down 1/4 at 14. On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average picked up 3.92 to 789.05.

But losers outpaced gainers by about a 7-5 margin on the NYSE, and turnover was a sluggish 12.19 million shares.

The NYSE's composite index rose .10 to 43.89.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .18 to 82.03.

Passenger Traffic Increased

MINNEAPOLIS/ST. PAUL — Passenger traffic on North Central airlines increased six percent in August. For the second consecutive month, traffic improved over last year. Passenger miles rose to 111.4 million from 105.4 million.

While boarding 463,802 passengers during August, three percent over the 449,088 in 1974, the company set a single-day record with 19,347 passengers on August 8. "National economic stability has contributed to the gains," said David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales. "Business travel is up, and more people are choosing domestic vacations by air."

Cargo ton miles were ahead one percent to 1.04 million, after lagging most of the year, Moran said. Mail ton miles alone jumped 28 percent.

Sinai Oilfield Plan Ready

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli and Egyptian negotiators in Geneva have completed arrangements for return of the Sinai oilfields to Egypt and submitted their work to their governments for approval. Israeli newspapers reported today.

The newspaper Maariv said the agreement supplementing the Israeli-Egyptian accord negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, would be signed next Wednesday in Geneva.

The Egyptians will take over the main Abu Rudeis fields eight weeks after the final documents are signed, and Israeli troops will leave the same day. Meanwhile, Israel will continue pumping oil until the transfer.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Questions 'Switch' Without Commission

Q. We have about $20,000 in a mutual fund and $7,500 in E bonds. We want to draw $50 a month from the fund to supplement our Social Security. The broker advised us to switch the mutual fund money into a utility stock which would give us a check every three months without depleting our capital. There would be no commission charge on the switch. Is this sound advice?

A. I don't understand how such a switch can be made without a commission charge. It is true the fund shares may be redeemed without fee, but it costs money to buy utility shares (unless, of course, he is thinking of putting your entire $20,000 into some offering his firm is making — and I certainly would not approve investing $20,000 in one utility stock).

A $20,000 mutual fund should certainly yield $50 a month (the "hook" says $100 a month) without cutting into capital. You don't state your age, or name the fund — but if you are elderly and have found that this $20,000 in the mutual doesn't yield as much as $1,800 a year, I would strongly urge that the $20,000 go into AAA or AA grade bonds yielding 9 per cent plus.

Furthermore, since you apparently want more income, why do you continue to hold E bonds? Why not HS?

Q. Where can I write for information on some old Canadian mining stocks? Some are more than 20 years old.

A. You might try the Information Division of the Canadian Consulate, 1251 Avenue of the Americas, New York City 10020. Also write to the bank which acted as transfer agent. The bank is named on the stock certificate.

Q. I understand one must be 65 or over to sell his home and avoid paying any income taxes on the profit.

A. Not so. It is true that there is a special tax credit for those who sell their homes after 65, but they are not automatically exempt. Talk to your nearest Internal Revenue Service office.

Favorites: Bull markets come and go, but large institutional investors still stick with pretty much the same list of leaders. A recent review by "The Exchanges," the N.Y. Stock Exchange publication, shows that International Business Machines, Exxon, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, General Electric, American Tel. & Tel., Xerox, Texaco, Sears Roebuck and Citicorp remain at the top of the "most wanted" list.

Q. We are past 60 with $35,000

In savings, $20,000 in E bonds and 40 shares of Sears Roebuck. We wish to avoid paying income taxes.

A. I can't see how the income from these resources would lift you into even the lowest income tax bracket. Assuming the $35,000 is earning an average of even 7 per cent in the banks, you don't have any income subject to taxes. The E bonds merely grow at the rate of 6 per cent a year, with tax deferred. And the Sears dividends don't go above the excludable limit.

Q. I noticed your response to a traveling man who said he was too busy to watch the market. I would like the list of investment grade stocks you said you were sending him.

A. Did you notice that the list went out to him in his stamped, self-addressed return envelope? Q. I bought some bonds about three weeks ago and they still have not been delivered. Doesn't this de up my money and give the seller the use of that money?

A. No. You became the owner of the bonds when you bought them and all interest earned since that time accrues to you. The actual delivery of the bonds does not determine the day on which money changed hands.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

What Women Must Know About Getting Credit

Within a few weeks (Oct. 28) the new federal credit law — making it illegal to deny or terminate credit on the basis of sex or marital status — becomes effective. But the value of this law to you will be only as great as you make it.

Whether you are single, married, separated, divorced or widowed, whether you are working or not, you must inform yourself and other women about the law's facts. Then you must insist on the law's enforcement. To help you:

Q. Can a creditor ask you about your marital status if you want individual credit?

A. Under the new federal law, a creditor may ask if you are married, unmarried or separated. He may not inquire whether you are divorced or widowed. In some states — such as Massachusetts, which has the strongest state credit laws in the U.S. — creditors are forbidden to ask your marital status if you are seeking individual credit. There, creditors must abide by stricter state laws.

Q. If your husband and you are applying for a mortgage, can the creditor ignore your income?

A. No. A creditor must include the incomes of both spouses when considering such a loan.

Q. If you decide to retain your maiden name, are you entitled to receive credit under this name, or must you use your married name?

A. Creditors must give you credit, if you qualify, under any legal name you use, providing it is recognized by state laws. If the state in which you live recognizes your maiden name and this is the name you use in all your business transactions, you are entitled to use it for credit purposes.

in the best interest of the victims or possible victims. We are fully aware of the potential danger when we have cause to drive in a "Hot Rod" manner and do not enjoy it any more than anyone likes seeing us drive in that manner. We are more often than not more scared than those we are chasing or those persons seeing our "Hot Rod" side.

The Police Committee, obviously, did not endorse the head-on collision. They did agree, after seeing the police report and talking personally to several officers from another police agency, there was reasonable cause for both our patrol cars to have been where they were at that particular point in time. Who could have anticipated what did in fact happen?

As for the shooting incident, the officer involved was not "choked off." He got away with nothing. He has publicly confessed his carelessness by pleading guilty in 7th District Court to a charge brought by a Special Prosecutor. He was fined $25.00 fine, $50.00 costs. He was suspended at the time of the occurrence, is suspended at this time, he has suffered humiliation and emotional anguish. I, the members of the department, the Police Committee and the victim of the accident, feel his confessed carelessness has been avenged. We do realize things could have been much worse for the carelessness, but they weren't. I for one, cannot continue on "ifs" and "buts." We are grateful the victim is quite alive and doing well. I have made no effort to cover the facts of this incident in any way nor has the officer involved.

I agree with Mr. Knapp, it is time that every citizen get off their duffs and go to the polls. If you do vote, please take time to check out the facts and circumstances of the issues being made.

PARENT-TAXPAYER ASKS QUESTIONS

Editor,

I am writing this letter as a concerned parent with a child in the St. Joseph public school system.

I have been reading and hearing many varying things having to do with this stalemate between teachers and the school board. Here are a few of the things I am questioning, not only as a parent but as a taxpayer:

(1) I understand that the new superintendent's contract included a $3,000.00 raise before he had even held the position and been evaluated as deserving this increase.

Is this standard hiring procedure with school superintendents? My husband is a businessman and he would never consider giving an employee an automatic raise until he had proven himself worthy of such an increase.

(2) Why is it necessary to write a completely new contract for teachers when the standard contract of the past has been readily accepted by both the teachers and the school board?

(3) Another thing that I have heard but have seen no actual facts about, concerns the money issue. I understand that teachers' salaries have been about 59% of the total school districts budget. It is also my understanding that with the teacher layoffs, increased state aid, and including the teachers' requested raise, the salary total would be lower than 59%. Is this true? If so, why is money the issue that the negotiations are deadlocked over as stated by the superintendent in this paper, when apparently the total salary amount will be less than in past years?

(4) I noticed from following the situation in this paper and from hearing about the individuals involved, that many of those teachers who received layoff notices and who had to file grievances and hire lawyers, were reinstated.

Did the school board also have to hire lawyers to represent them in these disputes? Also, who made the errors that resulted in necessitating these grievances and reinstatements? Why aren't we, the taxpayers, fully informed about these situations?

(5) I read last week in this paper that teachers asked for binding arbitration and that the school board declined this and hired a fact finder who is a lawyer. I then heard that a state mediator had been here on two occasions but could not function as a mediator because the school board refused binding arbitration. Are the taxpayers shouldering the expense for this fact finder and if so why, when a free mediator is available to expediate the negotiations and thus settle this contract dispute?

I received my education in the St. Joseph school system and have always had great pride in my district. Many of the teachers that I had are still teaching and they always seemed like dedicated, concerned and professional people of the highest caliber. I want the same kind of people teaching my children and I do not want St. Joseph to become the kind of district that does not attract this type of teacher.

I think there is an enormous lack of understanding and communication between the taxpayers and our elected school board officials. Perhaps if we as a community could have some answers to these questions it would help alleviate the problems that exist because we could better understand the situation and make our elected representatives aware of our wishes.

River Valley Takes Three Oaks Bid

THREE OAKS — River Valley school board has accepted the low interest bid of 4.53 per cent submitted by the Bank of Three Oaks on a loan up to $425,000 against anticipated state aid.

The bid, lowest of five submitted, is for a 150-day period and was accepted by the board during a special meeting Monday night. The money is to be used for school operating expenses.

Bloomington Trio Asks For Hearing

PAW PAW — Three Bloomington men demanded preliminary examination on charges of breaking and entering when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

Daniel Smith, 17, Robert Beer, 23, and Glen Prichard, 17, are charged with breaking and entering the rural Bloomington mobile home of Howard Caswell Tuesday afternoon. Police said a sleeping bag and an undetermined amount of change were taken.

Hearings for all three men were scheduled for Sept. 30. Smith was released on his own recognizance, while Beer and Prichard were ordered held on $1,000 bond.

In another case, Clifford Vickery, Jr., 18, Bloomington, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering Dickerson's Greenhouse, CR-388, Bloomington, early Wednesday morning.

He was ordered held on $4,000 bond pending the Sept. 23 hearing.

Energy Chief Sees Higher November Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb says oil companies might start raising prices by November if Congress has not reimposed price controls before then.

The companies so far are resisting the urge to increase prices freed of federal controls more than two weeks ago. But Zarb said in an interview that the companies would not hold out indefinitely.

"If, by Nov. 1, it has not cleared up, the likelihood of having a prolonged period of uncertainty is pretty good," Zarb said. "I think that 60 days from the time controls went off is ample time to have a resolution of the issue, if we're going to have one."

President Ford has been pressing Congress to reimpose price controls on U.S. domestic crude oil, on a schedule which would gradually remove the controls over 39 months or some similar time.

Ford used his veto to block a simple extension of the price controls without an acceptable phase-out plan.

On Wednesday, however, the House voted strongly for a provision, opposed by Ford, to roll back U.S. oil prices far below current levels.

The House vote clouded prospects for an energy bill that the President would not veto. And without a compromise which could be passed by Congress and signed into law by Ford, oil prices remain uncontrolled.

POLITICIAN: George Packard, former executive of the Philadelphia Bulletin, is losing his hat into the political ring. The 43-year-old father of six became the first official candidate Wednesday for the 1976 Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate — a seat now held by Hugh Scott. (AP Wirephoto)

About one-third of U.S. crude oil production was free of price controls even before Sept. 1. It has been selling recently at about $13 per barrel, roughly 50 cents cheaper than foreign oil which includes a $2 import fee.

But the other two-thirds of U.S. oil production — about 41 per cent of the nation's total crude oil supply — was limited by federal controls to a price of about $5.25 per barrel.

Since Sept. 1, when the legal authority for price controls expired, the companies have been free to jump that price right up to the prevailing market price of $13 per barrel.

So far, they have not taken advantage of the opportunity because of their uncertainty whether Congress would restore price controls retroactively, the energy chief said.

He said he would not expect "any abrupt, meaningful change that will shock anyone over the next six months" even if the oil price is allowed to rise.

Andrews U. Adds Native Of Chile

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Dr. Werner K. Vyhmeister, a native of Chile, has joined the mission department of the seminary at Andrews University here.

Most recently he was education director of the Seventh-day Adventist South American division.

Intermittently from 1954 to 1971, he taught church history, Greek, Biblical archaeology, Hebrew, philosophy of history, and introduction to Old Testament at two Adventist colleges in South America, Chile college, and River Plate college, Argentina.

He wrote and compiled several of the textbooks used in his classes. At both colleges he also served as vice-president.

In 1956 Dr. Vyhmeister received the equivalent of a master of arts degree in history and geography from the University of Chile. His next degrees were a master of divinity from Andrews University and a Ph.D. in history from the University of Chile, both completed in 1968.

His wife Nancy holds a master of arts degree in Biblical languages from AU. The Vyhmeisters have two teenage children.

POLICE ROUNDUP Pair Arrested On Assault Count

Two Benton Harbor men were arrested by city police Wednesday on charges of felonious assault after a fight and acid-throwing incident about 5:30 p.m.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were James Johnson, Jr., 17, and David Frank Bowman, 33, both of 710 Lavette street.

Police said the fight, in which Johnson allegedly hit Bowman with a board, followed an argument after Bowman allegedly threw drain cleaner into the face of Dorothy Johnson, 37, also of 710 Lavette. Both Bowman and Dorothy Johnson were treated and released from Mercy hospital.

A delivery man told Benton Harbor police he was knocked down and his wallet, containing $400 in cash and checks, was taken while he was carrying a case of soft drinks into an Empire avenue store Wednesday morning.

Richard Purtha, 28, box 350-5, Sawyer, said he was prevented from chasing the robber by a group of youths who gathered around him. He told police the robber was about 16 or 17 years old and wore a white shirt and light-colored pants.

Police reported Purtha had $100 in checks and $300 in cash in his wallet. The incident occurred in the 200 block of Empire about 10:30 a.m.

A Benton Harbor man was arrested by city police Wednesday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly struck a Watervliet man on the arm with a hammer.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Steve Allan Vincent, 18, of 1139 Lavette street. Robert Salmon, 19, route 2, box 1942, Watervliet, was treated and released from Mercy hospital after the 9:44 p.m. incident outside Vincent's home. Police indicated the attack followed an argument.

Two thefts were investigated by Benton Harbor police Wednesday. Shirley Loohey, 553 Columbus avenue, said a $400 portable color television was taken from her apartment. Madge Douglas, Berrien Springs, told police a citizens band radio was stolen from her car while it was parked in the 800 block of East Main street.

BAIL REFUSED
NEW YORK (AP) — A five-member appeals panel has refused to grant bail to Dominic Byrne, one of two men accused in the kidnapping of whisky heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd.

also would roll back the rest of the oil to $7.50 per barrel.

The House defeated, 242 to 152, a move to kill this provision. It then continued debate on the rest of its energy bill, and Speaker Carl Albert said final action may come Friday or early next week.

Once approved, a House energy bill would have to be reconciled with a Senate version in a conference committee so that a single bill could be approved by both houses and sent to Ford.

FRENCH STAR TOO EXPENSIVE Her Price Wasn't Right

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Who is the famed French star making the frequent complaints that she doesn't get U.S. film offers? Well, Jeanne Moreau would be making a movie right now if she hadn't jacked her price for a cameo role from $5,000 to $90,000, thereby losing out on "The 7 Per Cent Solution."

Q: What's the news on novelist Philip Roth? Is he a recluse like J.D. Salinger? — K.C. Worcester, Mass.

A: Roth is busy writing and we hear he has broken up with his long-time girl friend. But he's not a recluse and does see friends. Recently, Roth went in on a real estate investment deal with fellow writer William Styron and director Mike Nichols. They bought 80 acres in will from the time they were sweethearts? — B.N., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: Since we categorically disbelieve that the cosmetic tycoon and Jackie's sister were ever anything more to one another than speaking acquaintances, the answer has to be — NO!

FREAKING AROUND THE FOURTH ESTATE: Didn't Time magazine kill a story on a much-publicized Broadway producer when all their groundwork revealed that the information she provided couldn't always be checked? Yes, indeed. It's not nice to fool

Mother Time

Q: I know that Diana Ross did a movie called "Mahogany" in Europe but have seen nothing on her in recent months. — M.Y., Oswego, N.Y.

A: Diana is about six months pregnant right now and has had a very difficult time. Doctors have advised her to stay close to home and get as much rest as possible.

Q: Do you have any idea of where Hedy Lamarr is living? — E.K., Houston, Tex.

A: Hedy is living on Riverside Drive in Manhattan and, we hear, keeping close company with a man who works at Tiffany's.

Robin Adams Sloan welcomes questions from readers. While

MOREAU: $90,000 was too much.

Sloan cannot provide individual answers; questions of general interest will be used in the column. Write to Robin Adams Sloan, care of this newspaper.

LEE: Nothing in the will.

ROTH: Writing, buying land, etc.

Two More Models

LOS ANGELES (AP) — General Motors Corporation's Van Nuys assembly plant will begin producing Chevrolet Camaros and Pontiac Firebirds early next year. In addition to four other GM models now in production, the company reports.

Now See Here! BY BERT BACHARACH

REMEMBER: buying a new pen point, saving photos of Hollywood stars on Dixie Cup lids, re-sharpening needles for your Victrola after each play and owning a "steamer truck" Superstition: Stir a fire with a broom, and bad luck will befall you. (It's not very lucky for the broom either!) . . . Attention All Men: The barbers say the thing for '76 will be a short haircut with a long look. (If I can find out what that means, Ill let you know!) . . . A Libran (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) is the most democratic of all types — as gracious to servants as to honored guests. . . Item for a Lull-in-Conversation: "A psychiatrist says that thousands of people are dying from boredom every year. Boredom can kill because the cells of the brain die if they're not stimulated!" Our Confusing Language: worse, curse hearse. A survey shows that people are more likely to complain of feeling ill on a warm day than on a wet, cold one. Map-Reading: There's a Burnt Corn, Ala.; Crum, W. Va.; Fig, N.C.; Grit, Texas; and a Tea, S.D.!

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: Bake banana halves, sprinkle with pineapple juice and top with applesauce. (Christo's, NYC) . . . You can make those towering high ornets by whipping heavy cream into the egg batter. (Chasen's, S.F.) . . . Try brushing your next ear of corn with barbecue sauce. It's less fattening and truly delicious. (Stratton's, Forest Hills.)

FADED PHRASES: "She knows her onions," "Pretty please" and "She doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain." Recommended: A new book, "Bill W." (Harper & Row) by Bill Wilson, founder of Alcoholics Anonymous. . . A gal in "Pippin" admits she works to support her gambler husband. "He's real unlucky," she sighed. "I call him the family bread-loser!"

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: Many Sagittarians seem to have a "sixth sense" — they can often tell just how things are going to turn out. One with the Sun or Moon in Leo gives his all to his public. The average Taurus likes to stick to routine, but isn't a slave to it.
